Cuban Issue Erupts; Reports Indicate New Military Buildup

MEL HERMAN . . . attacks mess surrounding his garage in Mankato.

Ruptured Tank Pours Sticky Goo On Town

Mankato, Minn. (AP) — Two million gallons of soybean oil gushed from a ruptured steel tank in 20 below zero weather Wednesday, creating a monumental cleanup job as it spread in a sticky mass over a 5-block area.

The oil, in crude state, cascaded from a 40-foot high tank at the Honeymead Products Co., large soybean processor, when the 100 foot diameter vat burst near its base. Cause of the accident was not immediately known, but severe cold was a strong possibility.

One plant official estimated value of the soybean oil at $1.5 million.

One Injured

One worker was injured, not seriously. Two box cars —one loaded and estimated to weigh 80 to 90 tons—were pushed from their rails and then 300 feet into the Blue Earth River. Seven other freight cars on the plant siding were derailed. A storage shed was wrecked.

"It looked almost like a sea of fire coming toward us," said Mrs. Mel Herman, whose nearby home was surrounded by the amber colored oil. The wave of oil rushed into her yard, carrying with it barrels and gallon tins from the wrecked shed.

The Herman home was isolated in a lake of sticky oil 3 to 6 inches deep.

3-Feet Deep

In the 5-block area over which the oil spread it ranged from a film to 3 feet deep, depending on land contour.

Most of the oil flowed into 3 area streets and stood a foot deep in the worst places.

Three road graders with long blades were summoned. They moved down the oil-covered streets pushing the weather thickened oil into gooey mounds where pumps were set up for salvage and cleanup attempts.

Mrs. Herman was stranded in her home with 3 children, 3½ months to 6 years. Three other Herman children, 11 to 17, were in school.

Herman, a truck driver, returned home from delivering a tank of soybean oil in Minneapolis, to find his home surrounded and his car standing in 6 inches of oil in his garage. Oil did not seep into the Herman home.

Several other homes in the area were isolated by oil clogged streets. Sand dikes were built at some spots to contain the flow.

Like Quake

Oil lapped at the back entrance of the Mankato Rehabilitation Center, 300 feet from the burst tank. Mrs. Larry Fix, secretary, said it felt like an earth quake tremor.

Fierce Cold Wave Spreading Misery

Chicago (UPI) — One of the fiercest cold waves of the century Wednesday spread winter misery through the middle west and extended icy tentacles into the deep south.

Life slowed to a crawl in a vast expanse of the north as temperatures plunged to 44 below zero in Wisconsin, hit the minus 20s and 30s from the Rockies to the Appalachians and played bitter tricks on suffering thousands.

The toll of weather-caused deaths mounted past the 100 mark. The U.S. Weather Bureau said no relief from the marathon freeze was in sight.

Schools Close

Schools closed by the thousands in the Midwest and South. Drifting snow piled 16 inches deep in Indiana and stacked up two-foot drifts in Ohio. Miles-long traffic jams blocked Cincinnati streets.

Black River Falls, Wis., had the nation's lowest temperature — 44 below. Chicago's 18 below zero temperature, emphasized by 25-mile-an-hour winds, was the Windy City's second lowest reading of the 20th Century. St. Louis, with 10 below, had its coldest day in 23 years.

Hundreds of businesses and schools closed in Mississippi as the violent arctic blast plunged toward the Gulf of Mexico.

In the battle with the cold and snow:

—Chicago's Michael Reese Hospital reported frost bite cases came in at a clip of one each 15 minutes, and the Chicago Motor Club reported 3,500 calls for help in 11 hours — one of its busiest periods in history.

— Sub-zero temperatures cracked a St. Louis suburban water main and a lake spread — and promptly froze —in the Bellefontaine community. The Mississippi River at St. Louis was frozen over for miles and a lockmaster said the father of waters looked like "one big ice cube."

Highs To Rise Above Zero For Thursday

Nebraska's mercury readings are slated to top the zero mark Thursday, but occasional snow remains in the offing for residents in the extreme east and west portions of the state.

Accompanying variable cloudiness, Thursday's highs will rise to 10 to 15 above zero in the east, and to 25 to 35 above in the Panhandle.

Wednesday's state high was 5 above, recorded at Sidney. The state low Wednesday was a 23 below at North Platte. Lincoln's high Wednesday was zero; the low, 15 below.

Nebraska's highways were generally in good driving condition throughout the state Wednesday night except for spotted packed snow through towns and in sheltered areas, the Nebraska Safety Patrol reported.

There was some one-way traffic through drifts in the Ravenna - Loup City - Greeley area and on some east-west roads in northwest Nebraska Wednesday.

Moderate to strong winds in the Panhandle were causing some drifting by early evening.

Ord reported all county roads closed Wednesday.

NU Agronomists Say Cold Snap Won't Hurt Wheat

University of Nebraska agronomists feel that the current cold snap following 50 to 60-degree temperatures in early January will have little or no adverse effect on the 1963 wheat crop.

However, they do believe that a prolonged period of warm weather in February or early March followed by very low temperatures could result in serious loss of stands.

These conclusions were made Wednesday by J. C. Swinbank, university extension agronomist, and Dr. Virgil Johnson, U.S. Department of Agriculture wheat breeder.

"The fact that warm temperatures existed in early January is not nearly as important as the duration of the period of warm temperatures," the agronomists said.

Solons Check Morris

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

State Institutions Director George Morris Wednesday underwent intensive questioning from members of the Legislature's Committee on Committees concerning the administration of the Men's Reformatory.

Hearing on his appointment by Gov. Frank Morrison will be continued at 1 p.m. Thursday.

The 13-member legislative committee is charged with the responsibility of either recommending confirmation of department heads or rejection of their appointments.

'No Substance'

In answer to questioning, Morris told Sen. George Syas of Omaha that press reports concerning fights among Reformatory inmates and allegedly large grocery requisitions "do not seem to have any substance."

Fights occur in any institution, Morris declared and state law provides for food allocations to the superintendent of the Reformatory.

"I have told (Superintendent C. V.) Keller that if he has any fault, it is that he isn't tough enough," Morris said. "Otherwise, he has been pretty successful."

Asked to elaborate, Morris told Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha that he was referring primarily to Keller's policy regarding Reformatory employes.

'Sincerely Interested'

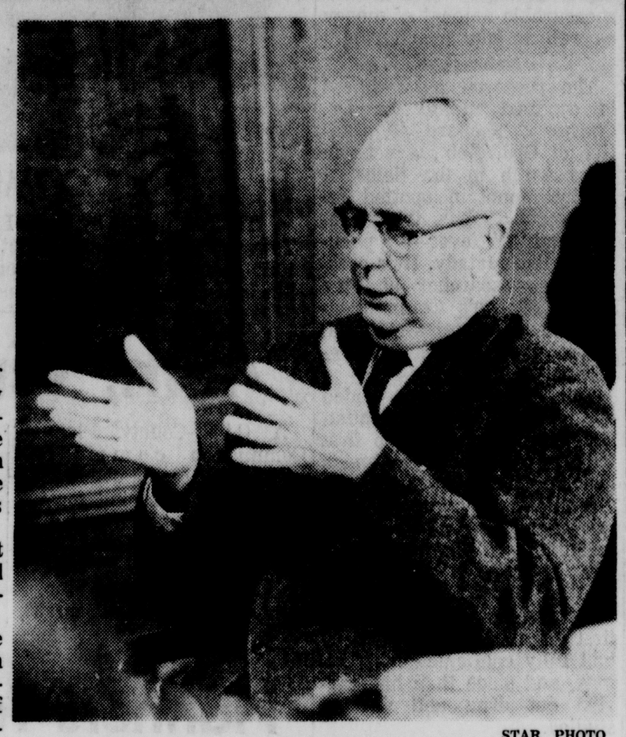

Questioned by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln as to Keller's "qualifications," Morris listed business experience and the fact that Keller is "sincerely interested in making the inmates better citizens."

Does Keller have any "formal training?" Mrs. Orme asked.

"There is no formal training for the job." Morris replied. "You can only receive practical training by doing the job."

Mrs. Orme noted that "our (Lancaster County) county attorney has been asked by the governor to investigate complaints at the Reformatory."

Morris told the committee that Nebraska has "the best mental health program in the U.S.," that inmate morale at both the Reformatory and the State Penitentiary has "gone up" in the past 6 to 8 months, and that the latter now has "probably the best educational program of any penitentiary in the country."

END NEARS IN DOCK STRIKE

New York (AP) — A record 32-day dock strike of East and Gulf Coast ports neared an end Wednesday, with the first of 610 idle ships expected to begin moving within 48 hours.

A vast log jam of millions of dollars worth of stranded cargo was due to start breaking up once the vessels began weighing anchor. However, it was expected to take three to 5 days for such major ports as New York to return to normal.

Waterfront peace moved a big step nearer during the day as New Orleans shipowners fell in line with a government-outlined 37-cent-an-hour contract pattern.

There had been some concern lest Southern ports balk at the settlement formula, which was expected to add $28 million a year to industry cost sheets in New York alone.

Shipowners from Virginia to Maine already were committed to the master contract, worked out by a 3-man presidential board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. However, local issues could delay the strike's end in some ports.

Losses to the shipping industry in the longest, costliest strike in Atlantic maritime history neared the $750 million mark.

Also needed before the strike's end was ratification of the settlement terms by 60,000 striking members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, whose leaders accepted the peace terms last Sunday. Most of the votes were expected to be in by Thursday night, with endorsement an all but foregone conclusion.

The ILA strike began Dec. 23, and President Kennedy appointed his 3-man board Jan. 16, after federal mediators were unable to break the contract deadlock.

In 3 days of hearings, the board worked out a formula calling for 24 cents in increased wages over a two-year span and 13 cents in fringe benefits.

The ILA had sought a 50-cent package, with 26 cents in wages, since negotiations opened last June. The shipping industry offered a 22-cent package over two years. Dock wages had been averaging from $2.98 to $3.02 an hour.

Salinger, Rock Act To End N.Y. Strike

New York (AP)—White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger arrived quietly in New York Wednesday to see if he could do anything about the city's 47-day newspaper black out.

"I know he is interested in the newspaper strike," said Federal Mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg, in confirming that Salinger was in town.

Salinger's arrival coincided with the renewal for the first time in a week of joint negotiations in the dispute. However, he took no direct part in them.

No Progress

No progress came out of the talks, which were recessed late in the day until Thursday. State Mediator Vincent D. McDonnell told newsmen:

"The position of the parties remains the same."

In Albany, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller announced plans to form an unsalaried 12-member state commission to investigate labor disputes and recommend settlements. He said its first assignment would be the New York newspaper blackout.

The plan is subject to the approval of the Republican dominated state legislature, which does not meet until Monday. But GOP legislative leaders pledged support.

The panel would have the power to subpoena books of parties to a labor dispute and thus, presumably, to review the financial condition of an employers.

The group, to be known as the State Commission of Public Concern, would be empowered to intervene when negotiations have failed and "a strike, lockout or other labor dispute is imminent or exists (and) threatens or will threaten the public safety, health and welfare."

PROBE CALLED BY SEN. MORSE

. . . Soviets May Be Working

Washington (AP)—The Cuban issue erupted with renewed force in the Senate Wednesday over reports of a new around-the-clock Soviet military buildup on Fidel Castro's island. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., ordered an immediate investigation.

Morse said he has asked the State Department for a quick briefing for his Senate Latin American Affairs Subcommittee. His staff said it has been tentatively set for 9 a.m. CST Friday. Witnesses will be announced Thursday.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who was one of the first to sound the alarm last year over reports of offensive Soviet missiles in Cuba, also told a reporter he has "confirmed by official government sources" that a new intensive buildup is underway.

Wide Variety

He said it involves tanks, guns, amphibious vehicles, large amounts of ammunition, planes, torpedo boats and other Soviet weapons pouring into the island.

The flurry was touched off by a New York Times News Service report that the Soviets are building and improving "highly sophisticated ground and air defenses."

The Washington-dated dispatch said large shipments of weapons are continuing to arrive, Soviet encampments are being relocated and strengthened, Soviet experts are directing Cubans in constructing underground depots, hangars and runways. But it said Soviet troops exclusively are working on some sites that are closed to Cuban military personnel.

Concentrated

The construction was reported concentrated between Havana and the San Antonio de los Banos Air Base, in Camaguey Province, and in the Sierra Maestra area of Oriente Province.

State and Defense Department informants, asked about the reports, said military construction in Cuba is proceeding at a normal pace and is defensive in character.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a leading critic of administration handling of Cuban affairs, expressed concern over the new buildup reports.

He said in an interview he will ask the Senate Armed Service Committee, of which he is a member, to look into the situation.

"We need some better explanation than we have had as to why Russian troops and munitions are 90 miles off our shore . . .," he said.

Keating claimed Cuba is now 10 times stronger than it was last July 1 just before the Soviet missiles and bombers — later withdrawn under pressure from President Kennedy—were landed there.

MIG Fighters

He said the weapons include MIG fighter planes capable of carrying nuclear weapons with a range that could cover many areas in the United States and Latin America.

"I don't know that they have nuclear weapons," he said. "I don't know that they don't either. I do say they are capable of carrying nuclear weapons." He said the same is true of Soviet torpedo boats sent to Cuba which, he said, can fire small but devastating nuclear weapons.

"All I am telling you is in the hands of government officials," Keating said. "I made no statement which was not confirmed by official government sources."

He would not identify them other than to say they were not necessarily of high rank.

About Same

State and Defense Department officials, however, said Soviet arms supplied Cuba are about what they were at the beginning of the year.

By these accounts Prime Minister Fidel Castro has more than 100 MIG jet fighters, 500 anti-aircraft missiles at 24 sites, 40 coast defense missiles, about 350 medium and heavy tanks, and 7,500 to 10,000 Soviet-Bloc trucks.

Castro's arsenal also includes 90 helicopters, 18 to 20 Soviet-built transport aircraft, torpedo and msisile boats, patrol craft and hundreds of artillery pieces, anti-aircraft guns and mortars, the sources said.

An estimated 16,000 Russian troops, some of them in combat units, are still reported in Cuba.

Goldwater had heated up the subject of Cuba Wednesday before the new buildup reports began circulating. He proposed a full Senate Armed Services Committee investigation of the disastrous 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.

60-Hour Duty Week For Firemen Advanced

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Labor and Public Welfare Committee Wednesday advanced to general file LB27, which would reduce the hours of paid city firemen from an average of 72 hours a week to 60 hours—but amended the measure to provide that the reduction should be spread evenly over a 3-year period.

The bill, introduced by Sens. George Fleming of Sidney, Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha, and Jerome Warner of Lincoln, was both amended and advanced by a 4-3 vote in the committee's executive session.

In other action, the committee advanced on a 7-0 vote LB110, introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, changing retirement provisions for paid city firemen in first class cities.

Would Wait

If the bill is enacted into law, those joining first-class city fire departments could retire after 21 years of service, but would have to wait until they are 55 years of age before drawing retirement pay.

In testimony offered on LB27, Lincoln City Attorney Ralph Nelson told the committee the Lincoln City Council and mayor were "somewhat divided" on the measure, and desired more information on its portent.

The Lincoln City Council Monday had instructed Nelson to oppose the measure, but after a meeting Tuesday with representatives of the Lincoln Fire Department who said they favor the bill, some council members indicated they wanted more information on the measure.

Both Lincoln and Omaha had indicated that the additional firemen who would have to be hired to meet the requirements of the bill, as originally drawn, would necessitate the addition of one mill to their respective city levies.

Omaha City Councilman Fred Jacobberger testified that the Omaha council was willing to work out a program to reduce firemen's hours there to some 67 hours a week.

Having Difficulty

In support of the measure, Sen. Fleming said fire departments are having difficulty finding suitable applicants because of the long hours, and that the national trend is toward shorter hours for these positions.

Graham Spahn of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Association of Fire Fighters, said the complexities of firemen's duties have increased rapidly in recent years.

"When you lower the standards to hire personnel, you lower the efficiency of fire fighters to a point below which the taxpayers have a right to expect," he said.

More Dependents Flee From Cuba

Miami, Fla. (AP) — About one hundred Americans and Cuban dependents arrived Wednesday from Cuba as exodus from Fidel Castro's island continued.

Many children, including infants, were among the arrivals on a special Pan American Airways flight.

Americans aboard were of Cuban descent.

The flight was the third in 10 days. On Jan. 13, 89 Cuban-Americans and relatives arrived and 5 days later, 90 more.

Cool Feet Of Mice Aid Leprosy Fight

Washington (AP) — The cool feet of mice may provide new footpaths toward the eventual conquest of leprosy, one of mankind's oldest and most-feared scourges.

This was reported Wednesday by the Public Health Service in describing development of an effective method for growing leprosy bacteria in the foot-pads of white mice. The feat was proclaimed "history's first cultivation of human leprosy germs outside the human body."

The microbes grow well in the mice feet because the temperature of a mouse's foot — the coolest spot in that rodent's anatomy — is close to the 68 degrees required for best experimental growth of leprosy bacilli.

Handy Testing

The technique has enabled handy testing of anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines — with hopeful results, the agency said. It added that experiments "seem to offer a gateway to the prevention and cure of an ancient and dreaded enemy of mankind."

The report said the tests do not prove whether or not these vaccines would protect humans against natural infection and field trials are necessary to help determine this.

There are some 15 million leprosy cases in the world, about 80% of them in Africa and Asia. The United States has about 2,000 cases, the report said.

The Health service underscored the potential importance of the development with this statement:

"The growing importance to the United States of developing anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines must be viewed in the light of our increasing contacts with tropical nations . . .

"Successful development of anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines can save both the United States and the world an immeasurable amount of money as well as human suffering."

Nebraskan

The research achievement is credited mainly to Dr. Charles C. Shepard, 48, a native of Ord, Neb., a veteran of research in the fields of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, scrub typhus, typhus fever, and "Q" fever — a pneumonia-like malady. He's presently a researcher at the health service's Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, where the new leprosy research in centered.

Working on a tip provided by an Australian scientist, Dr. Frank Fenner, who first found that mouse foot-pads provided a good growing environment for other types of microbes, Shepard tried the technique with leprosy germs late in 1957.

First Time

The technique worked the first time. By 1960, Shepard had fully confirmed his findings, and since then has carried out drug and vaccine studies.

Leprosy germs are injected into the right rear foot-pads of selected white mice, and the rodents become experimental lepers.

Various drugs are then given — by mixing the medicines with the mouse's usual diet — to see if the number of germs can be reduced. Eleven drugs have been tried so far, including isoniazid, cycloserine and "PAS," all of which have been used in treating tuberculosis. Leprosy and TB bacilli belong to the same family of bacteria.

Various vaccines have also been tested. Including one containing heat - killed TB germs and another called "BCG" which has been used as a preventive in human tuberculosis.

Leprosy Prober Is Native Nebraskan

A native Nebraskan, Dr. Shepard was graduated from Ord High School in 1932. He was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Shepard; Dr. Shepard was a longtime Ord physician.

The younger Dr. Shepard attended Stanford University 3 years and received his doctor's degree in bacteriology from Northwestern University Medical School. He remained on the faculty at Northwestern two years before interning at Marine Hospital in San Francisco.

In 1941 Dr. Shepard joined the U.S. Public Health Service, stationed first at Bethesda, Md., and later at Hot Springs, Ark. After World War II he spent a year studying viruses in Sweden. He was transferred to the Rocky Mountain Laboratory at Hamilton, Mont., in 1950.

De Gaulle Agrees To Use Restraint

. . . IN MARKET TALKS

Paris (UPI) — Authoritative French sources said Wednesday that President Charles de Gaulle has agreed to a plea by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that he refrain from immediately torpedoing negotiations on British entry into the Common Market.

The reports came as Adenauer and De Gaulle ended their historic Paris talks that produced a treaty designed to end the blood fued between the two nations.

Adenauer returned to Bonn and told newsmen there he had "very good negotiations" with the French President.

Necessary

At a Bonn news conference, the chancellor stepped up the drive for a United States of Europe and said it is "absolutely necessary" that the European Common Market have a directly-elected parliament.

Adenauer side-stepped the question of British membership in the Common Market although he did say he discussed the issue with De Gaulle. He said he did not want to make any statement that could upset the next Brussels negotiating session on the British issue scheduled for Monday.

Authoritative sources said De Gaulle has agreed not to torpedo the talks while the Common Market Executive Commission reviews Britain's membership bid.

No Time Limit

No time limit was set up for the review, but the sources said the commission's study would take at least several weeks.

Although the De Gaulle-Adenauer understanding constituted a stay of action, French sources said De Gaulle is not likely to change his mind as a result of the commission's study.

De Gaulle opposes British membership at this time while Adenauer and the other 4 Common Market members — Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg are favorably inclined toward Britain's entry. But France's veto would be sufficient to keep the British out.

Division Of Wheat Use Chief To Go

James J. Albracht, chief of the Division of Wheat Development Utilization and Marketing, will leave before April 1, 1963, according to Wheat Commission spokesmen.

No replacement for Albracht has been named at this time, according to Richard L. Lewis of Arapahoe, chairman of the Wheat Commission.

Lewis said that a meeting within a month would be called by the commission to consider the appointment of a chief, for the Wheat Division.

Albracht, who has been active in education, plans to return to that field, according to reports.

46th, Vine Tracts OKd For Business

A City-County Planning Commission committee Wednesday recommended "local business" zoning for two large tracts at 46th and Vine.

The Eugene F. Cotter tract, approximately 420 by 300 feet on the north side of Vine, is the probable site of an 80,000-square-foot department store with off-street parking.

A New York department store chain with some 35 units has taken a lease option on the site, lawyer Roger Dickeson told the committee.

He said the prospective chain is not a discount house, but that he could not reveal its identity at this time.

He said the requested zoning was purposely not extended to W and 45th street to protect residential property, but a special permit for off-street parking would be requested for the land fronting on these streets.

Local business zoning was also recommended for a 629-by-328-foot tract at the southeast corner of 46th and Vine, across Vine from the Cotter property.

This tract is owned by the Stuart Investment Co. No development plans were disclosed.

Committee recommendations for approval will be forwarded to the City Council, subject to ratification by the full commission on Feb. 13.

Commission members sat as a committee in Wednesday's public hearing for lack of 5-member quorum.

Present were John Selleck, commission vice chairman, Pace Woods, Chet Dobbs and F. Pace Woods.

In other recommendations, the committee:

—approved "A-2" single-family zoning for a 365-by-1,164-foot tract on the south side of Colfax from 40th to 44th, requested by E. F. Schmieding.

—approved "K" light industry zoning for 6 lots at the northwest corner of West N and Burr Ave. Zoning applicant was A. G. Van Horn.

—denied "B" two-family zoning for 3 lots at the northwest corner of 61st and Adams, requested by Edward J. Pavelka.

—deferred action on "D" multiple-dwelling zoning for part of 3 lots near northwest corner of 46th and Starr, requested by John T. Dunbar.

—approved final plat for North Park Subdivision, a 60-lot residential subdivision between Vale and Superior Ave., 10th and Lewis Ave.

Planners To Review Zoning Idea

A new zoning classification proposal for neighborhood shopping centers will be reviewed soon by the City-Council Planning Commission.

Eldridge Lovelace, a St. Louis planning consultant to the commission, was requested to submit the suggested code change.

This district, recommended in the 1980 Comprehensive Plan, would encourage new shopping center developments on one corner of an intersection rather than all 4 corners.

Pre-Conceived

In concept, it would encourage unified business development on a pre-conceived layout.

Thus, Lovelace said, new neighborhood shopping districts would be encouraged to plan for traffic movement and the well-being of adjoining residential areas.

He said other cities have adopted different devices for assuring equitable treatment to landowners in the zoning of a single large tract on one corner, rather than all 4 of the intersection.

Move Ahead

Lovelace also urged that the proposed county zoning code move ahead.

He said that a number of acreage-type subdivisions in the rural areas have sprung into being during the past several years.

"These acreage developments can snowball into a problem for the small rural school districts around Lincoln," he explained. "It's a developing problem for which there is no immediate, easy solution."

The Bartholomew & Associates consultant also suggested "residential growth in the Yankee Hill area should be encouraged for better balance of the city."

The comprehensive plan has recommended city growth to the west, southwest, south and northwest be encouraged.

Also suggested was a review of the West O area for a "better blocking out of zoning districts where needed."

Move Made In GI For Manager

Grand Island (AP) — Petitions were circulated in Grand Island Wednesday to get the issue of a city manager on the April municipal election ballot.

About 1,500 signatures must be obtained by next week to put the issue on the ballot.

Grand Island had a city manager plan of government for about two years but dropped it in favor of the mayor-council plan in 1955.

Backers said Grand Island is becoming large enough to need the services of a fulltime administrator.

Mayor Frank Ryder, who is not filing for a 4th term, commented that "if the city is willing to pay the cost, a city manager is a fine idea."

Lifeboat Planned In Space

New York (AP)—High in an orbiting space station, one crewman develops signs of appendicitis, or receives word of a tragedy in his family down on earth.

He should come home, and a special one-man space "lifeboat" could be the answer. Designs for such a lifeboat were described Wednesday to the Institute of Aerospace Science by Dr. Robert Brodsky of Space-General Corporation, El Monte, Calif.

It would be a small paraglider. Two inflatable edge beams would form a "V" with an inflatable keel beam containing the passenger capsule, 27 inches in diameter and 10 feet long. A metallic fabric membrane impregnated with resin and stretched between the beams would form the wing surface.

Such lifeboats, packed in cylinders 3 feet in diameter and 11 feet long, could be attached to the outside hub of the orbiting space station.

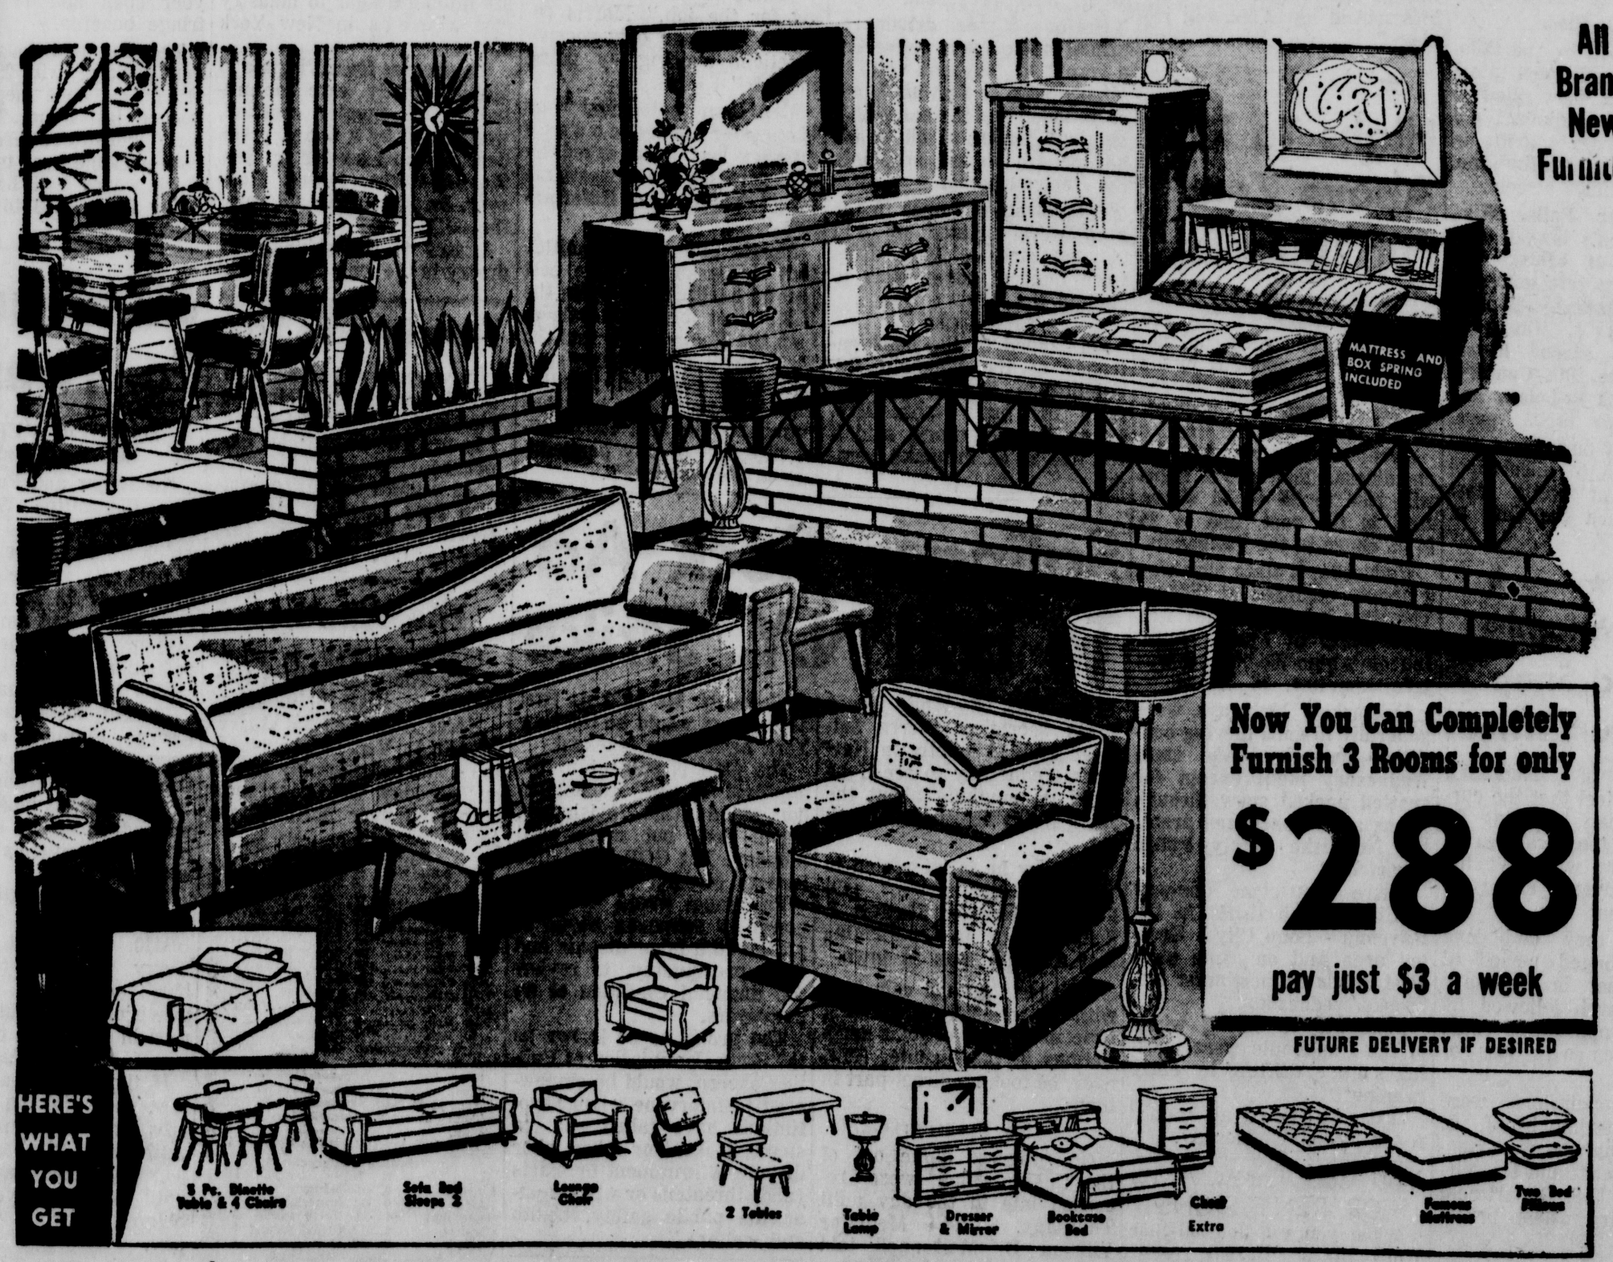

The crewman would enter one through a hatch, and lie on his stomach in the capsule. The hatch would close, the paraglider be ejected, and inflated. A guidance and control unit would position it properly, and braking rockets would fire to slow its speed for the descent to earth.

The paraglider would be controlled automatically until it had dropped to re-entry altitude. Then the passenger would glide in swoops in the atmosphere to avoid excessive heating, taking two hours of maneuvered flight until he landed gently.

Adams County Irrigator Cited For Co-Operation

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Raymond Janssen of Hastings was honored at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education Wednesday as an outstanding co-operator in the Nebraska Irrigation Development Farm Program.

The occasion marked completion of Janssen's 5 year contract with the Irrigation Development Farm Committee composed of representatives of the University, Adams County Agricultural Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service and the University's Agricultural Experimental Station.

Dr. Adam Breckenridge, vice chancellor of the university, awarded a certificate of appreciation to the Janssens, while a colored photo of the family's farm was presented by Dr. Elvin Frolik, dean of the College of Agriculture.

Dale Jaedicke, state conservationist, SCS, stated that the bench terraces first installed on the Janssen farm have been the guidelines for many farmers who have since adopted the same farming practice.

"We also helped develop the first re-use pumping system in the area on the Janssen farm," said Jaedicke.

H. R. Mulliner, NU district extension irrigationist, stationed at Hastings who has worked closely with the Janssen farm, said "the water re-use system adopted on this farm will be a practice that will become more and more important in the years ahead to obtain efficient use of our water resources."

In the first year of irrigation the Janssen farm produced a corn crop that averaged 115 bushel per acre compared to a non-irrigated county average of 43 bushels per acre, university spokesmen pointed out.

E. W. Janike, director of extension, was master of ceremonies at the honor luncheon recognizing the Janssen family.

Mrs. Janssen receives certificate of appreciation from Dr. Breckenridge while Dr. Frolik, left, Janssen, center, and Jaedieke, right, look on.

Nehru Says Red Chinese Are Hedging

New Delhi (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru accused the Red Chinese Wednesday of hedging on the proposals formulated by 6 nonaligned nations to prevent an all-out war between the two Asian giants.

He told parliament that "there can be no talks . . . unless China accepted in total the Colombo conference proposals with their clarifications."

He assured legislators worried about a possible compromise that parliament's resolution of last November pledging to drive the Chinese aggressors from "the sacred soil" of India remained government policy.

"We are determined to carry it out no matter how long it may take," he declared amid applause.

Nehru said the Colombo proposals would not affect that pledge and emphasized any preliminary talks agreed to would not touch upon the merits of the border dispute with the Chinese.

Freeze, Strike Hiking Midwest Grocery Prices

Omaha (AP) — The freeze in Florida and the dock strike in New York are having a noticeable effect on midwest breakfast tables, in the opinion of Omaha grocers.

One estimated that since the freeze in Florida the price of frozen orange juice has jumped at least 35% while canned orange juice has climbed about 25%. Another grocer warned that this hike on citrus fruit juice will soon be reflected in prices for other juices as the demand turns heavier.

It also appeared that prices on green coffee were headed up also because of the dock strike and bananas were "slightly" affected. One buyer pointed out that suppliers of coffee have stopped their "deals," meaning no one is offering 5-cents off. That means the housewife is paying more for coffee although the shelf price remains the same,

Control On Federal Expenses Basis Of Curtis-Byrd Plan

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., Wednesday joined Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., in proposing a constitutional amendment which would put the federal government on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Byrd is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, on which Curtis serves, and of the joint committee on the reduction of non-essential federal expenditures.

Under their proposed amendment, the President would be required to submit a balanced budget each year, including an amount of no less than $500 million earmarked for reducing the national debt.

The amendment also would require Congress to join in the effort to control federal expenses. If Congress should authorize more spending for the forthcoming year than the estimated federal income would provide, the lawmakers would be forbidden to adjourn until they had done whatever necessary to balance the budget.

In case of national emergency, and on the President's recommendation, Congress could by three-fourth vote suspend the provisions of the amendment for one year at a time.

Such an amendment would have to be ratified by legislatures of three-fourths of the states within 7 years from the date of its submission by Congress.

Princess Anne-Marie, Constantine To Marry

Copenhagen, Denmark (AP)—Princess Anne-Marie, a pretty 16-year-old whom Danes call "The Wild One," became engaged Wednesday to sports-loving Crown Prince Constantine of Greece. Both royal families gathered happily in Copenhagen to celebrate the betrothal.

The engagement, long rumored and often denied, was announced almost without warning. Many Danes could hardly believe that their mischievous little princess was going to be a bride. But they rallied and hunted out Greek flags to fly.

Amalienborg Palace did not immediately disclose when and where the wedding will take place. Unconfirmed reports from Greece said it might be in Athens next January. The princess is still a school girl and has to finish her studies.

The vivacious, chestnut-haired Anne-Marie, youngest of Denmark's 3 royal princesses, appeared in public with her handsome, 22-year-old fiance within minutes of the announcement. She was in a joyous mood.

Hugging her coat around her slim figure, she linked arms with Constantine and stepped into an icy wind to greet King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece as they flew into Kastrup Airport. All the royal group hugged and kissed each other.

The Greek royal couple was accompanied on the jet flight from Athens by Prince Juan Carlos of Spain and his wife Princess Sophie of Greece. Anne-Marie was a bridesmaid at Sophie's wedding in Athens last summer. She and Constantine were almost constant companions during those festivities.

Constantine is a dark-haired 6-footer who loves fast cars and fast boats. He won an Olympic gold medal in the Dragon Class sailing at Naples in 1960. He is one of Europe's most eligible bachelors.

Anne-Marie got her nickname "The Wild One," as a little girl who was always up to pranks. Her father used to complain that he could never practice the piano without constant interruptions from her.

Senate Group OKs Bell And Four Others

Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to be special representative for trade negotiations.

William T. Gossett, Dearborn, Mich., former Ford Motor Co. executive, to be Herter's deputy.

William B. Dale of Bethesda, Md., to be U.S. executive director of the International Monetary Fund.

John C. Bullitt, whose home is near New Brunswick, N.J., to be U.S. executive director of the World Bank.

Police And Dogs Track Burglar

Police were trailing a house burglar early Thursday after he attempted to enter one home and took about $13 in cash, a roast, and two pounds of bacon from another.

Detective Lt. Merl Hesser said the burglar broke a back window at the Robert Moss home at 1001 Rose but a barking dog inside apparently scared him away.

While officers were investigating the incident, a burglary was reported at the home of Marvin I. Sohl at 2100 E.

The Sohl house was ransacked, Hesser said, and the burglar got away with the $13, a roast, and the bacon. Police believed that the same man was responsible for both incidents and 6 officers and two police dogs were attempting to trail him.

2 Men Suffer Fatal Attacks During Extreme Cold Temps

Norfolk (AP)—Two Norfolk men suffered fatal heart attacks during the extreme cold weather Tuesday.

Arthur C. Ward, 72, retired Chicago and North Western Railroad machinist, suffered a fatal heart attack about 10:30 p.m. while walking the 4 blocks from the Masonic Temple to his home following a lodge meeting. His body was discovered about a half block from home 2½ hours later by his son-in-law, James Ahrens, who started a search for Ward when his family became alarmed. The temperature was about 12 degrees below zero. Survivors include his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Ahrens, and Mrs. Dorothy Stowell of Sierra Madre, Calif.; and a son, Arthur Jr., of Tracy, Calif.

The other victim was Raymond Daniel, 47, who suffered a fatal heart attack as he walked away from his truck after shoveling it out of a snowdrift in the north part of Norfolk.

He is survived by his wife and daughter. Funeral services for Mr. Daniel will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the Norfolk Home for Funerals.

Walker Completes McKillip Well

Denver (AP)—The first oil discovery of 1963 in Utah's Uinta basin was completed last week, Petroleum Information reported.

The industry publication said the Phillips Petroleum Co's No. 2 flatrock, C SW NE 30-14S-20E, a 7,500-foot Mesaverde test, flowed 609 barrels of oil a day. It is 11 miles from existing oil production.

Other developments in the Rocky Mountain-high plains states included:

Nebraska—Keith F. Walker completed 1 McKillip, C SW NW 35-2N-27W, in Red Willow County, pumping 36 barrels of gravity oil a day. It is a west offset and confirmation to the Missouri ridge field discovery drilled last year. Production is from acidized lansing perforations at 3,324-38 feet. The field is about two miles west of Silver Creek.

Not A Simple Matter

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

By any standard of measurement, the issue of separation of church and state is no simple matter. It has been complicated of late with various court actions on the matter and a growing public awareness of the problem involved. The Board of Education was faced with the problem as a result of protests on Christmas programs held in Meadow Lane Elementary School. The board, it seems, has reacted with proper restraint and consideration.

Board members were not thrown into any panic on the matter but it was suggested that pre-holiday programs be reviewed by the administration as a precaution against future problems. It is assumed that the schools will continue to have some activities which include the general theme of Christmas, Easter and other holidays. Those who object to this certainly have every right to do so but to argue that this issue has been definitely settled to point firmly in one direction is not without some weaknesses. This was evident in the remarks of School Board Attorney Willis Hecht who noted that "any effort to exclude everything with religious overtones would be futile."

The Right To Object

It would seem questionable that everything of a Christian nature was also of a religious nature. Exactly what is the definition of a religion? Is Christianity as a whole a religion? Maybe it is but how would the Supreme Court treat the subject?

Is it possible that the court would rule that things related in some way to Christianity might not necessarily constitute a religious matter? There isn't much question that there are religions within Christianity and there are elements of these religions that are common to all who fall under the heading of Christianity. This, too, has become more obvious since the dawn of the Ecumenical Council and the new effort to find points of agreement rather than areas of difference among Christian faiths.

The protest heard by the board noted that Christianity was not dominant throughout the world. This, too, is a fact but it is only a part of one's consideration of this subject. Christianity is dominant in this nation and it is this nation that is concerned with the issue of separation of church and state. Now, the dominance of Christianity gives it, certainly, no special privileges or rights. The religion with only a few followers is to be respected and tolerated just as is the religion with many followers. Dominant religious groups are given no preference in any way in this nation and that was the intention when this nation was founded.

The significance of the matter of dominance relates to the point made by Attorney Hecht. Christianity being a dominant characteristic of religious monements in this nation means that many Christian ideas are an integral part of the life of many of the people of this nation. It becomes a substantial job to define that point at which an idea, a practice, a theory or a thought becomes a Christian or religious thing or merely a part of the mind of the people. No one has ever said it was a violation of the Constitution to include in history classes the part played by religious groups in the founding and settlement of various parts of this nation.

However, it is not at all inconceivable that debate could be generated over this historical subject. The same might be true of various science subjects. What it gets down to is what constitutes a way of life and what constitutes a religious matter. Some would say that the two should be one but we all know that this is not the real truth of the matter.

Then, there is on the other side the question of what constitutes a religion outside the area of Christianity. Is the elimination of everything with a Christian influence or connotation the recognition, in reality, of another religion? Is the absence of all religion really just another religion of its own? These are questions, too, that have never been fully answered in our courts of law.

By the complete elimination in all form and essence of all aspects and elements of Christianity from the public educational system, does that system thereby pay homage to the non-Christian religions? Are the non-Christian religions thereby given a special consideration which is as much a violation of our federal Constitution as would be absolute recognition of Christianity? We don't suggest that we have the answers to any of these things or even that all the questions raised are valid ones.

One Side And The Other

It is suggested, however, that the subject is a highly complicated one and an area of our national life where the Lincoln School Board has made a sincere and honest effort to conform to the letter as well as the intent of the federal Constitution. To disagree, of course, is the right of anyone and everyone and a right as jealously guarded as any we enjoy as citizens of this nation.

"Reminds Me Of That Crazy Idea Of Henry Ford's That You Can Make More Selling At Lower Prices"

Could Be An Answer

Algerian officials are working with American representatives hopeful of arranging an aid program in which American food can be used for wages.

The idea goes back to a pilot project managed by the Church World Service in which hungry, jobless peasants in eastern Algeria are working at such public tasks as soil conservation and reforestation receiving U.S. wheat as pay.

Currently a U.S. aid program is feeding four million Algerians elsewhere in their country as a sort of a vast relief project. Such a project may be advisable in a country so flattened by disaster that reconstruction cannot quickly get underway. But it is a questionable benefit when it preserves clients in idleness and thus operates against reconstruction activity.

Indeed, the principle of "food for work" has application in almost all development areas. It provides manpower for essential public projects and relieves the workers of what is generally a day long task of finding enough to eat so that they can survive another day to spend it in another quest for barely enough. An area so cursed has small chance of redeeming itself.

Fortunately the U.S. has food to spare. Algeria has need of employed manpower to rebuild its country. The "food for work" program could provide a good answer there. The experience might also provide the practical experience needed to fit it into the aid picture for application in many other places than Algeria.

Behind In Our Thinking

A recognized engineering firm took as its field 12 southeast Nebraska counties and computed the advantage of uniting the various electrical power sources into one jointly owned modern, conventional generating system.

It came up with a provocatively low production figure of 6.10 mills per kilowatt hour.

This figure contrasts with the present 10.07 mills cost for the Lincoln municipal system. It is almost 40 per cent less.

The engineering report, handed to the Southeast Nebraska Power Study Group, indicates a general saving of $12 million dollars within 15 years.

The report levied no criticism against existing services, but rather factored in customer density and the advantage to be gained through big volume production. Load growth projections, extended a quarter of a century, leave no doubt that greatly expanded electrical production is inevitable. The question then becomes not one for engineering speculation, but the concrete one of the most beneficial manner in which to meet the future.

It is a long and complicated step between an engineering feasibility report and a successful development, pooling the interests of a 12 county area. But, at the least, this examination of the electrical future of Lincoln and its neighboring communities brings out sufficient surprises to indicate that Lincoln and its neighbors have dozed through quite a few lesson periods on electrical progress, considerably to their economic disadvantage. This community must think bigger and much more intently.

A Little Word Eating

One might find cause for alarm with the empire he is building for himself, but Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings has pretty well nailed Gov. Frank Morrison to the wall. The governor has stated that the one thing that could cause him to seek re-election in 1964 would be failure of the Legislature to implement the program he advanced in his budget message.

Sen. Marvel adroitly pushed the governor's words right back at him with the reminder that it was only the day before that the governor told legislators not to consider his budget as final authority on the needs of various state agencies. The governor, in fact, paid special tribute to the Budget Committee which Senator Marvel heads by noting, in effect, that it was more qualified than he in making a budget recommendation.

If the governor has another interpretation of the matter, it would be well for him to explain it as he appears to be at odds with himself as the situation now stands. He cannot stand up for his program and recommendations on one hand and bow to the superiority of the Budget Committee on the other hand. It is hoped, of course, that he will take the former course.

The political wisdom of conflict with the Budget Committee might be debated but what are the alternatives? If the governor lacks the determination and understanding to stand up to the Budget Committee, then his program will most certainly go down the drain. It would be nothing short of a miracle if the Budget Committee went even as far in appropriations to state agencies as the relatively conservative recommendations of the governor. By defending the authority, responsibility and knowledge of the governorship, the governor has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Labor Is Losing Public Sympathy

WASHINGTON—This column is written by a newsman who holds the 25-year badge as one of the first-year members of the Newspaper Guild and who is also a member of the American Federation of Radio and TV artists. The first is a CIO union; the second A. F. of L.

The column is written for the purpose of diagnosing what's wrong with both labor and the Kennedy administration in the wave of strikes which for one month crippled the shipping of the nation and for even longer stifled the freedom of the press in our major city.

John F. Kennedy as a senator wrote the minimum wage act, battled against the Landrum-Griffin bill, had asked Senate leaders to place him on the Senate Labor and Education committee in order to become a champion of labor. Yet as a friend of labor he has not accepted the obligation of friendship—to tell a friend when he is wrong.

George Meany is not only a friend of labor but ,as president of the AFL-CIO, has spent his life protecting the hard-won gains of labor. Privately, Meany has expressed concern for the poor image labor is getting from the recent strikes; fears a rash of anti-labor legislation.

☆ ☆ ☆

Elmer Brown is president of the International Typographical Union whose local has precipitated the crippling and prolonged strike and shutdown of New York newspapers. Mr. Brown knows that the shutdowns may well put some newspapers out of business, are turning the public sour on labor, and are causing great hardship among other workers in the publishing business.

Nevertheless Mr. Brown has not exercised the obligation of responsible friendship.

☆ ☆ ☆

The reason why Mr. Brown, Mr. John F. Kennedy, and Mr. Meany have not spoken out is the fear of being called "anti-labor." Labor, during long years of hardship, when John L. Lewis's coal miners had to battle U.S. troops in Mingo County, W. Va., and when Phil Murray's Steelworkers had to battle company police in the Chicago massacre of Easter, 1937, have built up "anti-labor" as a dirty word. It was self-protection—necessary self-protection—at a time when labor was down and needed help on the way up.

But labor is up now. It is so high up, so much on top that it can bring stagnation to the ports of the nation and cause more upheaval in the fruit-shipping countries of Central America than Fidel Castro.

BOB CONSIDINE

Air Force Wins Place In Space

NEW YORK — Space, at long last, has been declared "on" limits for the U.S. Air Force. There was a period when the birdmen were little short of being the space age's first "second class citizens."

Somebody in Washington, perhaps the President himself, has finally come around to the sensible position that it is all well and good to put a man on the moon by 1970 but the man should not have the additional worry of wondering if he will have a United States of America to come back to. The military man has as much right in space as on land or sea or in the atmosphere. How else was the Golden West settled?

The military man-in-space projects, so long downgraded, will get off the pad with the launching of Project Gemini, following the shutdown of Project Mercury sometime next year. Gemini is basically a beefed-up Mercury type of orbital action which will feature two-man capsules and utilize a more powerful booster than the Atlas-D which hoisted Astronauts Glenn, Carpenter and Schirra around the earth. Beyond Gemini lies project Apollo, the moon endeavor whose cost even now is believed to run about $10,000,000 a day. The Air Force apparently will be in on that one, too.

The situation with the Air Force and the national Aeronautics and Space Administration, until Tuesday's announcement, was something akin to Britain's attempts to overcome the intransigence of Charles de Gaulle and break into the European Common Market. NASA, with either the consent or command of Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, took the prime role in the man-in-space projects.

"Peaceful uses of space" became the by-word. The astronauts, all of them crack test pilots for the military, were removed from their services and instructed to hang up their uniforms for the duration of their tour. As far as is known, John Glenn is the only astronaut who has been seen in uniform since the deal was made, and then only briefly did he appear as the be-ribboned Marine lieutenant colonel that he proudly is. Russian cosmonauts, all Red air force men, show no such finickyness.

The Air Force was reduced to one experimental space adventure, the unmanned Blue Scout program, cut-rate probes of deep space with tiny instrumented payloads. Its man-in-space appropriations fell far behind those of NASA. Inevitably, all sorts of frictions and not a few fictions emerged. They might well have become worse during this present session of the Congress, which will concern itself in part with the dumping of Skybolt, the downgrading of the RS-70, and, more pertinently, the long-time favoritism shown NASA.

The Air Force now is training 36 spacemen at the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The school is under the direction of Col. Charles Elwood Yeager, USAF, first man to break the sound barrier.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

To Your Good Health

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is blood tested for in a general checkup? — E. J."

Blood CAN be tested for hundreds of things. However, a relatively small number of "screening" tests are used in a general checkup.

Dr. Molner

The "blood count" gives three basic bits of information: the iron content (or hemoglobin), the number of red cells, which together with the iron content suggest anemia if the count is low; and finally the number of white cells. If this is high, it may indicate infection; if very high, leukemia; if low, other symptoms will be studied for less common conditions.

A "differential smear" may be studied to identify particular types of white cells which may be more numerous in allergy cases, or particular types of infections, or blood ailments.

Then, of course, the serum (liquid part of the blood) is routinely tested for the presence of syphilis — this particular test, of course, is the "blood test" required in so many states before granting a marriage license.

Still other tests are for sugar levels (excessively high levels hinting strongly at diabetes) and for the nitrogen content, which is elevated in kidney disease. The popular cholesterol test is more and more being included as a routine procedure for the indications it gives of the arteries — an approximate matter, as yet, but helpful.

If history and observation raise a suspicion of other conditions, special tests may be in order to confirm it: uric acid for gout; calcium for parathyroid disease; iodine for thyroid disorders. Lupus erythematosus, a disease not as rare as we once thought, is subject to blood tests. And many of the rarer diseases now are being identified quickly and accurately by highly precise tests being used in laboratories with special equipment.

In the case of severe and stubborn infections, blood is cultured to determine the presence of germs in the blood stream, as well as to discover the exact strain involved, and to know what drugs will be most effective. Indeed, special materials may then be prepared to combat the precise type of infection.

Thus a "blood test" is not a rigid, fixed procedure. You begin with a variety of basic (and rapid) tests, then go on to the more difficult ones if circumstances indicate the need.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there danger in the use of 'Tenderizers' in cooking meat? If they work on food, don't they also 'tenderize' the digestive organs? — R. C. K."

You can be sure that the Food & Drug Administration could not sanction the use of tenderizers unless they were safe! There are two added answers, also. First, the digestive organs are of an entirely different type of tissue than the fibers in meat which are loosened by the tenderizers; second, the action of the tenderizers is destroyed by the heat of cooking.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 15, developed osteomyelitis after a compound fracture of the leg. Why does this disease develop in spite of the excellent care we gave him? — Mrs. G.S."

A "compound fracture" means that jagged edges of the bone broke into the flesh and skin, opening a path for germs to enter. These are nasty fractures.

"Osteomyelitis" means infection of the bone.

The most diligent care cannot guarantee that germs won't sneak in. It's an ever-present risk with this type of injury.

However, modern antibiotics are very good in combating osteomyelitis. A decade or two ago, without the drugs, your son might well have lost his leg instead.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is polycythemia vera? What is the cause and does climate have any bearing on it? I am 70, never had any blood difficulty before. — R. H. L."

It's an increase in the number of red blood cells, often called "Osler's disease," after one of the great men of medicine who recognized it. But the cause remains unknown. It's generally a disease of middle or later life. The normal red blood cell count is about 5 million, but with this ailment it rises to from 9 to 13 million, thus thickening the blood. Climate has no bearing on it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had cold sores ever since I can remember. What causes them? Can I avoid them?— Mrs. J. N."

A virus causes them. Sometimes, for reasons not exactly known, an ordinary smallpox vaccination stops them.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Commuters

Blair, Neb.

A report recently made public by Western Electric Company of Omaha showed that hundreds of their employes live "outside the limits of Omaha" and in towns many miles removed, including Lincoln where many of the Western Electric employes who worked for the company when it was located in Lincoln still find that they prefer to live. The Interstate has made it much easier for these 241 employes to commute each day to work. Driving this far to work a few years ago would have been unthinkable.

It was not surprising to learn that 41 Western Electric employes live here in Blair. It is reported that these 41 people receive $161,529 annually. Blair and towns like Blair within 25 to 40 miles of Omaha are finding their future satellite on that of Omaha's. It isn't so vitally necessary that such Nebraska towns aggressively search for new industry as it has become for other towns farther removed from main population centers in order to survive the loss of agricultural revenue.

As has already been suggested, it might not be too many years hence before we come to see a vast complex of uninterrupted housing developments, stretching all the way between Omaha and Lincoln, as well as north and south of Omaha for up to 50 miles, interspersed by huge neighborhood shopping centers.

Happily and for a while yet, towns like Blair can still offer the advantages of city life without the disadvantages, a kind of "country atmosphere" lying fallow though only a stone's throw from the hectic life of the city dweller. We hope so.

Old Cliche

Lincoln, Neb.

I am a city man. Like many others I think it is time that our Legislature broaden the tax base. It is wrong to overload taxes on property while permitting other forms of wealth to escape. A legislator who shirks his duty in that sort of a situation is protecting an injustice and working against the people who elected him. He is entitled to no honor.

But I am also a little sick of this guff about the farmer paying 51 per cent of the taxes. He should be required to state what he is paying 51 per cent of. There are lots of taxes. Maybe he is paying 51 per cent of the state levy. But that is one of the smaller levies. How about municipal taxes and city school levies? He isn't paying them. And what about the income tax?

One third of the state budget is provided by the federal government, not by property taxes. Virtually all of the millions that come into Nebraska to the farmer under the farm program come from the federal till, a great deal comes from the same source for soil conservation, flood control, for hospitals, sewage disposal and numerous other things.

Good Job

I think Star Reporter Nancy Ray's article on the Visiting Scientist program of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences was so very well done. All who read it seem to come to the conclusion that here truly is a worthwhile activity.

This is to say thanks for a good job, well done. I think it is great that The Star saw fit to use it in a place so often reserved for those who go wrong.

Equal Contest

Alexandria, Neb.

Through federal programs, the erstwhile New York dock worker receives $75 a week for not working and his former employer is prevented from hiring a substitute. The New York printer has the same deal, only somewhat better pay, $90 a week. Their opponents, the owners of docks and printing establishments, receive no federal aid whatsoever. Furthermore, these persons are threatened with a wage decision made and enforced by the government.

If this were a sports contest, the public would roar its disapproval of so lopsided a contest and find intolerable the threat that the umpire may decree the score.

Congress should equalize the contest. Let the worker quit. Anything less makes him a slave to his employer. Leave the employer free to hire whom he pleases. Anything less makes him a slave to the government, a person ruled by executive decree.

Human Rights

Lincoln, Neb.

Do human rights really take precedence over federal, state, city and county rights? The writer thinks not, unless it is a new form of civilization. How many human rights were evidenced before the founding of this country with its clearly defined division of power between federal, state, county and city?

If human rights were present, they surely were not nurtured under other governments. If we keep our form of state rights, federal rights, county rights and city rights, human rights will automatically grow and flourish!

So let's not put human rights first until we protect the form of government that let us at last uncover and free them.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Many Oblivious To Large Variety Of Pleasure

By ROBERT PETERSON

It's a sad fact that a lot of people miss the boat when it comes to satisfaction. They plod along through life with a dull awareness that something is missing. But they're largely oblivious to the treats which dangle within reach like sugar plums on an old-fashioned Christmas tree.

They need to wise up to our planet's pleasures, including the thrill of flying and looking down on the glittering lights of a great city at night. They should know the delight of sailboating in a stiff breeze, the challenge of mountain climbing, and the succulence of broiled lobster.

They should experience the crackling vigor of a Western rodeo, the majesty of a stirring symphony concert, and the quiet restfulness of a weekend in the mountains.

They should know something of the excitement of a major league baseball game, and dazzle of a spectacular ice show, the grandeur of grand opera, and the adventure of deep sea fishing.

They should try folk-singing and spiritualism, ice skating and shuffleboard, Shakespeare and skin diving.

They should know what it's like to cook their meals over an open fire and put up for the night in a sleeping bag under the stars. They should know what goes on in a coal mine, an automobile assembly plant, a cattle ranch, and a brewery.

They should make a point of learning to square dance, running for office, tasting fresh maple sugar, seeing a Passion play, and getting to know a dozen people of other races and religions.

They should experience the wonderful freedom of piloting their own car on a leisurely drive across the continent. And they should visit every one of the national parks and monuments and take a cruise on the principal lakes and rivers.

If they live in a warm climate they should spend a few winter months up north in the ice and snow, and if they live in a cold climate they should know the balmy joys of tropical climes in midwinter. If they're city dwellers they should know what it's like to live in the country.

If they're rich they should spend a few days in the slums so they'll appreciate their money. And if they're poor they should save their pennies and spend a couple of days at a luxury hotel so they'll know how the other half lives.

They should get acquainted with the sea and know the tantalizing tranquility of an ocean voyage.

They should have an honest awe of the universe, a smattering of facts about the history of man, and an opinion or two about modern art, capital punishment, socialism, and the conquest of space.

Of course it's quite possible to journey through life without sampling a single one of these plums. A lot of people do. But if you're interested in tapping the fullness of living you'll want to experience the richness and variety of the delights which dangle within human reach.

If you would like a booklet "Trips to include in Retirement Travels" write to this column c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

New Bill Would Forestall State Sunday Closing Laws

Sen. Terry Carpenter proposed in the Legislature Wednesday that Nebraskans be given a chance once and for all to forestall Sunday closing laws at the state level.

Introduced by the Scottsbluff senator was a bill to put to a vote of Nebraskans next year a constitutional amendment providing that the Legislature shall never require any place of business, except those selling alcoholic liquors, to be closed on any particular day of the week.

The amendment would not disturb the right of cities or such subdivisions of state government to pass Sunday closing ordinances.

Also proposed by Carpenter Wednesday was a constitutional amendment which would exempt from taxation the intangible property of certain trusts which have as their purpose the funding of pension, profit-sharing or other employe benefit plans.

Such trusts would need to have been established in Nebraska by employers residing in or having their principal place of business in Nebraska.

The bill on Sunday closings was given number LB412. The bill putting the tax exemption constitutional amendment to a vote in 1964 was given number LB409.

Bill Would Clarify Public Water Rights

Omaha and Lincoln senators Wednesday introduced in the Legislature a bill clarifying the rights of cities and irrigators to use underground waters within one half mile of the bank of any river in Nebraska.

The measure LB440, came from Sens. William Moulton of Omaha and Fern Orme of Lincoln.

Under the bill, underground waters a half mile from a stream bank which have not already been applied to beneficial use "are hereby declared to be the property of the public, and the use of such waters for beneficial purposes is dedicated to the people of the state, and to be subject to appropriation in the same manner and to like effect as the water of natural streams within the state."

Such underground waters would be considered to be river water "and may be taken by pump, wells, pipes, ditches or other means," the bill states.

Municipalities, irrigators and others already using these underground waters would hold a priority for continued use of such water.

Farm and ranch domestic wells would be exempt from the provisions of the bill.

Domestic uses of the water would include extinguishment of fires, sanitary purposes, household uses and watering of livestock, poultry and domestic animals.

Elephants blaze and follow the best routes through forests and mountains. Many highways in present-day Africa originally were laid out by elephants.

Legislature Votes To Hang Butler's Picture Back Up

The Legislature Wednesday voted 34-0 to return the portrait of former U.S. Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska to the East Senate Lounge's north wall.

Sen. Marvin Stromer of Lincoln requested the picture be returned to its former spot. "I think it is a credit to the state and should be hung where the people of Nebraska can properly view it," he said.

The picture was removed from the wall when the East Senate Lounge walls and ceiling were cleaned about one year ago.

Repatriation Sought

Manila (AP) — The Philippine and Indonesian government are negotiating details for the repatriation of about 1,600 Indonesians who entered the Philippines illegally, a foreign office source reports.

Stalder Attaches Name To McClelland Bills

Sen. Lloyd W. Stalder of Humboldt Wednesday was granted unanimous consent by the Unicameral to add his name to 16 tax bills growing out of Dr. Harold McClelland's tax study report.

Stalder

The bills were introduced Tuesday by Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud.

Stalder told the Legislature that he wanted his name added, "because I feel these bills should be brought to the floor and receive thorough discussion."

Stalder said that most Nebraska citizens link the McClelland report with a recommendation that Nebraska enact an income tax. "However," the 64-year-old lawmaker added, "he also made many other recommendations pertaining to the inequities of our present property tax setup. I think it is proper that these recommendations receive due attention."

Tuesday's tax bills did not include the income tax.

Stalder said he believes many Nebraskans and "some members of the Legislature" do not realize the details of the McClelland report.

New Office To Up Flow Of Defense Information

. . . PENTAGON ANNOUNCES

Washington (AP)—The Pentagon announced Wednesday that it is taking new steps to increase the flow of information to people outside the military.

It said a "Directorate of Classification Management" has been set up, designed to speed information and in which responsibility would rest for all classification and declassification policies and procedures.

The new office succeeds another one set up in 1957, then called the "Directorate of Declassification Policy," which also was intended to help speed the flow of information. The new agency has been established within the office of assistant Secretary of Defense for Security Policy.

The new series of directives, signed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, says the objectives are to:

—"Increase the flow of information to the public so that the American people will be better informed concerning defense policy and significant activities of the Department of Defense.

—"Increase and accelerate the flow of technical information to American industry and the scientific community in order to advance the state of the art of weapons technology . . ."

Workers Killed

Warsaw (UPI) — Three workers were killed when a train hit the truck carrying them to work in Tychy in southern Poland. Four others were injured.

RESEARCH LAB SITE SELECTION HIT BY COTTON

Washington (AP) — Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., accused the Kennedy administration Wednesday of "a blatant political power play" in selection of the Boston, Mass., area for a $2 million water research laboratory.

Without direct reference to Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., declared in a statement, however, that the selection was "made on its merits" after surveys determined the Boston area to be best qualified for the site.

"It would appear that this plum has been badly awarded to the Boston area without going into the advantages of the various communities to the extent of determining which has the most to offer," Cotton said in a statement.

He added that the victims were 7 New Hampshire communities which made bids for the plant.

11 Persons Die In 3 Midwest Fires

By United Press International

Eleven persons—10 of them children—died Wednesday in 3 cold-weather fires that swept their homes in the middle west.

Five brothers and sisters perished in a blaze that roared through a two-story frame house on Milwaukee's North Side.

Wilt Jefferson, 37, returned home from his job at a tannery to find firemen carrying the bodies of his sons Harry, 13, Ray, 7, and Chester, 4, and daughters Debra, 5, and Diane, 2, from their home.

Medic Report

A medical examiner said the children succumbed to a combination of burns and carbon monoxide poisoning. Authorities said one of the children might have touched off the blaze while playing with matches.

Three other Jefferson children were at school when the blaze broke out and their mother, Arleava, 30, was away from home.

Three daughters of a Morris, Ill., farm couple burned to death when fire razed their home. The burned bodies of Carol Matteson, 15, and her sisters Nancy, 12, and Kay, 9, were found in the charred rubble hours after the flames were extinguished.

Hendley Matteson, his wife and 3 sons—ranging in age from 11 to 20—escaped from the flaming house in sub-zero temperatures. The boys jumped from a second floor window.

The Mattesons had been named the outstanding farm family of Grundy County, Illinois, in 1961.

At Gary, Ind., an apartment house fire claimed the lives of two girls and their great-aunt. The victims were identified as Mrs. Carrie McGee, 67, Dula Stanford, 12, and Dianne Walla, 8.

The girls' bodies were found in a bedroom, the woman's body in a living room. All suffered burns and smoke inhalation, firemen said.

Radios Taken

Police Wednesday said two transistor radios were stolen from a display on the fourth floor of Gold's Department Store, 11th and O. Reports said the value of the radios were set at $125 and $149.95.

4 Children Snatched From Fire

Hartington (UPI) — Four small children were described in good condition Wednesday after a narrow escape from death when their home was destroyed by fire.

The children were saved by 3 men who climbed through a window to rescue the unconscious children. They were taken to a Hartington physician who said they would surely have died if they had been left even a few minutes longer in the smoke-filled house.

The children were identified as Mike, Bruce, Carol Ann and Linda —the pre-school children of Mr. and Mrs. Linn Fiscus. Mrs. Fiscus returned from a trip downtown to discover the home on fire.

Her screams brought help and Fire Chief Lester Sammuelson, Vane Powers and Raymond Heggert Jr. climbed through a window to get the children, who were found huddled under a table.

Fiscus was at work with the State Highway Department and 3 other children were in school. Fire officials said the fire which destroyed the home and furnishings, started in an overheated stove.

Public Hearing On Axle Load Limits Set In February

A public hearing on axle load restrictions on state highways will be held at 11 a.m., Monday, Feb. 4, in the East Senate Chambers of the State Capitol, the State Department of Roads announced Wednesday.

The hearing will concern the adoption of rules and regulations for restricting the axle loads on trucks using state highways. This procedure is followed each spring to protect the highway surfacing from spring break-up.

The department said all roads to be restricted will be tested, about the time the frost is leaving the ground, to determine the safe axle loads that may be carried.

The restrictions are usually imposed in the latter part of February and may last until some time in May, the department said. The restrictions will not affect cars or lighter truck traffic.

During the period that roads are restricted, permits for overweight vehicles will not be issued on the restricted roads.

PTA Grants Go To 12 Students

Twelve upperclassmen at the University of Nebraska were awarded one-semester grants by the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers, it was announced.

The students, majoring in elementary and secondary education at the university, each received checks for $132 for which they agree to teach school for at least two years and repay the sum at a later date.

The students are selected on the basis of academics, teaching potential and need.

They are Floyd Else, Elm Creek; Larry Gerlach, Lincoln; Fred W. Bieck, Lincoln; Sandra Kay Ahlman, Pierce; Edna May Lewis, Lincoln; Jerilee Jensen, Millard; Carol Anne Benne, West Point; Nancy Sterner, Lincoln; Dixie Hufnagle, Lincoln; Paul Jackson, Lincoln; Ross Munn Jr., Lincoln; and Margaret Souders, Anselmo.

State Watershed Purchase Bill Is Advanced

A bill providing for expenditure of state funds for the purchase of land easements and rights-of-way for local watershed projects was advanced Wednesday to the floor of the Legislature.

The measure, LB71, cleared the Public Works Committee by a 6-0 vote.

Also advanced on a 6-0 count was LB72, providing that watershed conservancy district directors may enter into agreements holding the U.S. free from claims resulting from construction, operation or maintenance of such federally-assisted projects.

Two Held

Heard and held were LB73 and LB74, both of which would primarily change election procedures for soil and water conservation district supervisors.

All 4 bills ere recommendations of the Legislative Council study committee on soil and water.

LB71 would establish a special state revolving small watersheds flood control fund.

State funds could be obtained only after a local watershed organization had acquired at least 75% of the needed number of easements and rights-of-way.

Then, within 10 years, local organizations would be required to sell the property purchased by state funds -- with a like percentage of the purchase price returned to the revolving fund.

If LB71 gains legislative approval, soil and water conservation officials intend to go before the Budget Committee to request an estimated $250,000 for the proposed fund.

Program Lagging

Nebraska's watershed development program is "lagging" because of the inability of local sponsors to fully finance the cost of acquiring needed land, Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth told the committee.

Federal funds for actual construction are withheld until the land is acquired, he noted.

LB71, Ruhnke said, would initiate "a bold program" to meet this problem. It also offers "tremendous recreational potential," he pointed out.

Others supporting the measure included Milton Fricke of Papillion, chairman of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission and legislative chairman of the State Assn. of Soil and Water Conservation Districts; Warren Fairchild of Lincoln, executive secretary of the commission, and Robert Crosby of Lincoln, counsel for the Salt-Wahoo Watershed District.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Good morning, Professor. Here you are digging among the ruins, looking for the socially significant things that happened a thousand years ago in 1963, right?

One of the social things of our day, Professor, was the "thank you" note.

We were a grateful bunch. Always writing "thank you" notes.

"We so enjoyed your delightful party . . ."

"Thanks for the tie with the red and green stripes. It was just what I wanted . . ."

☆ ☆ ☆

IT WAS a terrible chore after Christmas, Professor. Sometimes you thanked people for things—"Just what I wanted." Then they caught you down at the exchange desk, turning it in.

Likely they were down turning in what YOU gave them.

It called for a lot of social grace.

☆ ☆ ☆

I think there has been one socially significant change, Professor. And you won't find it on the tombstone rubbings. Only in Time Capsule notes like this.

This was the year the public relations people stopped propitiating journalists with square face gin. Began buttering them with square contributions.

"In previous years we have sent our valuable friends a modest reminder of our friendship. This year we felt you would be more pleased if we took thought of the less fortunate.

"Consequently, we have made a contribution in your name to the National Association Against Scaly Skin."

That is one of the letters I am writing "thank you" to.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, Professor, the point is that up to this time, the PR firms used to bang the journalists with a mickey of rifle whiskey come the jolly Yule.

This was considered ethical at Christmas. (Only at Christmas, though! Any other time it would be corruption of integrity. But Christmas was a merry season in our day.)

Anyway, the press agents got elegant. They cut out the red-eye and made contributions.

☆ ☆ ☆

We were against a lot of things in my day, Professor. We were against Communism. And contributions were made in my name against it.

We were against popping off with ticker trouble. People contributed for me to associations against ticker troubles.

We hated all sorts of ills man was heir to. I had a lot of contributions made against these things.

I also set down and wrote "thank you" notes for contributing. I got "thank you" notes from the people contributed to.

It made a complicated life, Professor, But that was the way we ran things in 1963. Plenty of complications.

I don't want to seem ungrateful. But it was much simpler when you just reached for the corkscrew and—well, you probably have troubles in your enlightened days, too.

☆ ☆ ☆

We also had to thank people for parties. What parties, Professor! We had a lot of parties during those days. No contributions except advice like, "Use less vermouth."

Well, we not only had to write "thank you" notes for these parties. We often had to include apologies.

Like, "We had a wonderful time at you delightful party. I DO hope Joe did not ruin your hat when he gave his imitation of Sophie Tucker. He gets so carried away . . ."

Or, "Though we were unavoidably late, we did enjoy the party. Did the wine stain come out of the rug? If you sprinkle it with salt and cold water . . ."

☆ ☆ ☆

That was some of the social significance of my time, Professor. Things you won't find in the history books. You got a lot out of it but it took a long time getting over it. I hope this helps your research a thousand years from now. I thank you.

YOUR INCOME TAX:

Taxpayers Save Money Through Deductions

EDITOR'S NOTE: This year, as always, deductions and how to save money through them, is one of the prime issues facing the nation's taxpayers. In the following article, fourth in a special series of 5, is an explanation of what deductions you are entitled to claim.)

By FRANK CORMIER

Washington (AP)—One of the most difficult chores facing many taxpayers at this season involves a decision on how to save the most money through deductions.

First of all, every taxpayer can claim a standard 10% deduction covering such items as contributions to recognzed charities and churches, the payment of interest on mortgages and other debts, medical expenses, and state and local taxes.

You can claim this deduction—and, in most cases, place 10% of your 1962 income beyond the reach of the tax collector—even if you didn't spend a penny on any of these items.

But don't claim that 10% too quickly. You may do better to ignore the standard deduction and itemize actual expenses eligible for deduction.

Figure your total deduction both ways and adopt the computation that produces the biggest total. Why settle for 10% if you can claim 15?

Dollar Limits

There are dollar limits on itemized deductions, but they're quite generous. However, the standard deduction is limited to $1,000 if you are single or file a joint return. If husband and wife file separately, the standard limit for each is $500.

To be more specific, the standard deduction is 10% of your adjusted gross income, within the stated dollar limits. And adjusted gross income is defined as the sum of your 1962 earnings minus sick pay and certain business expenses. It is the amount reported on line 9 of tax Form 1040.

If you itemize your deductions, the eligible items include:

Contributions—gifts to religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary groups, but not including political or propaganda organizations. These cannot exceed 30% of your adjusted gross income and, in some cases, 20%.

Interest—interest paid on home mortgages, bank loans or personal debts.

Taxes — most nonfederal taxes such as retail sales taxes, personal property and real estate taxes, state gasoline taxes and auto license fees. Water and sewer taxes and dog license fees are not deductible.

Casualty losses and thefts—any loss not covered by insurance in cases where your property was damaged by fire, hurricane, flood or other natural forces. Losses from theft are deductible in the year of discovery.

Drugs, Medicines

Medical and dental expenses—put down the cost of drugs and medicines exceeding 1% of adjusted gross income, then add the amount paid doctors, dentists and hospitals. If the combined total exceeds 3% of adjusted gross income, enter the excess as your deduction. The 3% rule doesn't apply to certain persons 65 or older but the 1% limit on drugs and medicines does apply. Dollar limits start at $5,000 times the number of your exemptions but not counting exemptions for age or blindness.

Education—In some cases, you may deduct expenses for job-connected education.

Child care—employed persons who are widowed, legally separated or divorced may deduct up to $600 for the care of dependents who are under 12 or physically or mentally unable to care for themselves. The care must be necessary to enable the taxpayer to work or seek work. A married woman may claim this deduction in a joint return if the total is reduced by the amount that the couple's adjusted gross income exceeds $4,500.

Miscellaneous—the cost of small tools, special uniforms, and safety equipment required in your work, dues to a union or professional society, fees to employment agencies, gambling losses (provided they do not exceed winnings), and most alimony or separate maintenance payments made under court order. Child support payments cannot be deducted, though they may give you an exemption.

Tomorrow: Your income and job expenses.

Both Parties Back Election Changes

By United Press International

Proposals to close the gap between Nebraska's primary and general elections and to have state party conventions elect the delegates to national conventions have the vigorous support of the chairmen of both parties.

Both Republican state chairman Robert V. Denney of Fairbury and Democratic chairman Russell Hanson of Newcastle gave enthusiastic endorsement Wednesday to the proposals.

State Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln Wednseday introduced bills in the Legislature which would move the primary from May to September and have the state conventions, instead of the electorate, decide who goes to national political conventions.

Both chairmen said they would be willing to testify in behalf of the bills when the Legislature holds committee hearings on them.

Hanson said action should be taken, "and it should be taken this year," to implement the primary and convention delegate bills. But he said he was afraid the chances "aren't too good."

The two party chairmen gave almost identical reasons for their support of the proposals.

"The delay between a May primary and a November general eletion is too long a period," Denney said, "to keep public interest stimulated. It would be very beneficial to our election system to shorten the gap."

Hanson said there is a "slipping period" between the two elections now which requires the parties, the candidates and the voters to begin all over again for the general election.

Sentence Is Heavy

Rangoon, Burma (AP) — Gen. Ne Win's military government has decreed a prison term of 10 years to life for persons found guilty of "stealing or misappropriating" government property.

Crock Breaking Lowers Viet Cong Supply Of Water

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Crockery cracking is among the duties of government troops mopping up communist guerrillas in the flat. marshy southern tip of Viet Nam.

Though the area is laced with brackish canals, there is a severe shortage of drinking water. Hence jugs, bowls and other storage utensils the soldiers find in huts within the Viet Cong's nominal sphere of influence are destroyed to reduce the water supply.

"When they get thirsty enough," an officer explained, "they may think of coming over to our side."

CONSUMERS HEAD SAYS TWO FACTORS LEFT OUT OF STUDY

The president of Consumers Public Power District said Wednesday it is possible that engineers "have omitted two very important items in their cost estimates for a new generating plant" for a power pool in southeast Nebraska.

A power study group Tuesday said the joint operation of generating facilities in southeast Nebraska offered a "real potential for economy."

Consumers President Fred Wagener of Lincoln said the two possible omissions were "interest charges on borrowed money to finance plant construction and costs necessary to interconnect the towns involved in this pool."

Wagener said Consumers' cost estimates used in the comparison with the proposed new pool included these cost items.

Morrison Signs Three Measures Into Law

LB30, LB31 and LB198 were enacted into law Wednesday when Governor Morrison reported to the Legislature that he had signed all 3 bills.

The bills pay the salaries of members of the Legislature, bill drafter's department and officers and employes of the Legislature.

Kennedy Lines Up With De Gaulle Foe

New York (UPI) — President Kennedy lined up Wednesday night with one of French President Charles de Gaulle's political opponents—specifically, a critic of De Gaulle's opposition to British membership in the Common Market.

The President said he was pleased by a statement by French economist Jean Monnet that Britain soon would enter the Common Market "in spite of De Gaulle."

Kennedy made his statement in a letter to Monnet, first president of the European coal and steel community. The letter was read at a Freedom House dinner honoring Monnet, whose work for continental unity has caused him to be known as "Mr. Europe."

At the same dinner, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball indirectly accused De Gaulle of making "the unhappy error" of seeking to recapture the past instead of working toward a nobler future. Ball described De Gaulle's ideas for a strong and independent France as "obsolete" and echoing "a distant and earlier age."

Neither the President nor Ball mentioned De Gaulle by name. But their praise of Monnet constituted a reply to De Gaulle's stand on the Common Market, his opposition to a NATO nuclear force, and presumably the recently concluded Franco-German treaty.

The President told Monnet, "I have been happy . . . to read your statement of Jan. 16." In that statement, Monnet said: "I believe that in spite of De Gaulle, the negotiations for entry of Britain into the Common Market can be concluded rapidly."

"I believe with you," Kennedy told Monnet, "that 'Americans and Europeans must recognize that neither one nor the other is defending a particular country, but that the ensemble is defending a common civilization'."

"The United States will be true to this conviction, and we trust that it will have the support of Europeans, too," the President said.

Talks 'Progressing' On Turkey Getting Polaris

Ankara (AP) — Turkey and the United States have made "favorable progress" in talks about putting Polaris missiles in place of medium range Jupiter rockets at NATO bases in Turkey, it was announced Wednesday.

Defense Minister Ilhami Sancar told the National Assembly that "favorable progress is being made at current negotiations between Turkey and the United States concerning replacement of Jupiter rockets in Turkey with Polaris missile systems to provide NATO with a more effective nuclear deterrent.

"An offer shall be submitted to NATO council as soon as negotiations are over."

Although it was the first official announcement that such talks were being held, last week Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin assured Turkish senators that if Jupiters were removed, they would be replaced with more powerful weapons.

The medium range Jupiters have a range of 1,500 miles. The Polaris missiles. mounted on submarines, have a 1,800-mile range. They also can be fired from land but complicated and expensive launching equipment is necessary.

Britain recently agreed to accept nuclear-capable Polaris missiles from the United States, which had decided to scrap its unsuccessful Skybolt —until then, counted on by Britain to prolong the useful life of its manned bombers.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman declined to say whether a missile swap would take place in Turkey. Other sources said no decision has been reached.

Bastemeyer Still Dislikes Work Right

State Labor Commissioner Donald Bastemeyer Wednesday told the Legislature's Committee on Committees that he "still believe(s) that Nebraska's right-to-work law is not a good law."

Bastemeyer's comment came in reply to a question from Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha.

Klaver noted that Bastemeyer had become "a controversial figure" during the 1961 Legislature as a result of his published remarks in opposition to the right-to-work clause in the state constitution.

The 1961 session subsequently passed a resolution reaffirming its support of the clause.

"It was then my personal opinion that it was not a good law . . . and it still is," Bastemeyer said.

The committee also heard testimony regarding the appointment by Gov. Fran Morrison of Motor Vehicles Director B. H. G. Eithing, Public Welfare Director Frank Woods, Veterans Affairs Director Leo J. Beck Jr., and Insurance Director Frank Barrett.

York Feeders Annual Dinner Attracts 600

York — Nearly 600 York County Breeders & Feeders members and their wives attended the 15th annual association banquet Wednesday evening. Visiting delegations from Fillmore, Hamilton, Clay, Seward, Polk and Butler counties were represented.

Two life-long York livestock and agriculture leaders were honored by the association for meritorious work in agriculture. They were C. Alvin Olson and Alvah R. Hecht.

Olson, immediate past president of the State Board of Agriculture, has served 18 years as president of the York County Agriculture Association. Hecht, for many years a Nebraska extension agriculture worker, organized and led many programs in the counties he served as agent.

Dr. R. F. Patterson, dean of the school of business, University of South Dakota at Vermillion, was guest speaker. Dale Olson of York is president of the York County Feeders Association.

Liquor Stamp Bill Moved By Solons

A bill eliminating the use of identification stamps on alcoholic liquor was advanced by the Legislature Wednesday.

The measure, LB44, was moved to enrollment and review 35 to 0 after being amended to include the emergency clause. This would make it law right away should it finally be enacted.

Sen. William Moulton of Omaha, one of the introducers, said the stamp was not needed. He said the state would save $25,000 over the biennium in printing costs if the bill is approved.

Other sponsors were Sens. Le Roy Bahensky of St. Paul and J. W. Burbach of Crofton.

Two Omaha bills were also advanced.

One would permit Omaha to license and regulate dogs in an area 3 miles outside the city limits. The other would prevent relocation or abandonment of a county without notice to the Omaha planning director.

Liz Undergoes 'Manipulative Operation' For Dislocated Knee

London (UPI) —Elizabeth Taylor underwent a "manipulative operation" by an orthopedic surgeon Wednesday night for a dislocated knee. When it was over she staged a champagne party in her London clinic room with actor Richard Burton.

The fragile beauty of the many and costly illnesses entered the clinic for treatment of a "locked cartilage." Surgeon Robert Young and two assistants administered an anesthetic and manipulated it back to shape.

A hospital source said the operation lasted 45 minutes and that Miss Taylor was given a general anesthetic. The source said it was only a "mild dislocation" and that the dark-haired actress "behaved nobly."

When the effects of the anesthetic wore off and Miss Taylor was wheeled back to her room she ordered champagne for her and Burton and the men who attended her. She was in a plaster splint which the hospital said would remain on "for a few days."

The anesthetist was John Middleton Price, like Burton a Welshman, who helped save her life in the same clinic in 1961 when she was stricken with penumonia. This time the ailment was so minor she is expected to be back at work by Monday.

Miss Taylor left the hospital in a wheelchair just before 10 p.m., her leg swathed in bandages. She drove away with a studio official who made no comment on her destination or when she would return to work.

Before entering the clinic she jauntily posed for a studio photograph in which she wore a light suede sheep-lined jacket, fawn-colored leotards and calf-length red-topped black boots with high heels. Her long dark hair. drawn back in a pony tail, was uncovered despite the freezing temperatures.

She was standing without assistance.

Miss Taylor was taken to the clinic from the set of the picture, "Very Important People," which she is making with Burton, her co-star in the movie "Cleopatra" which was delayed for many months by her previous illnesses.

Exon Co. Awarded Contract For Vehicles Dept. Equipment

The J. J. Exon Co. of Lincoln Wednesday was awarded a contract for $69,750 as the low bidder on 15 units of mechanized filing equipment for the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Three firms had bid on supplying the equipment under specifications which required that the number of units be "sufficient" to handle an estimated 800,000 cards.

Exon submitted a bid of $59,850 for 14 units, at a unit price of $4,275, plus $375 per unit for optional equipment, bringing the total per unit cost to $4,650, and the grand total cost of the 14 units, plus optional equipment to $65,100.

The Diebold Co., whose bid was submitted by D. E. Kreager of Des Moines, Iowa, offered 15 units for $70,275—a per-unit price of $4,685—which did not include the optional equipment.

The Fremont Office Equipment Co. of Fremont offered a bid of $69,174 for 14 units—$4,941 per unit—also without the optional equipment.

State Purchasing Agent Williard Wells said that Motor Vehicle Department Director B. H. G. Eiting elected to purchase an additional unit from the Exon Co. to provide equipment necessary for an anticipated increase in the number of files to be required.

Eiting said the mechanized filing equipment will enable the department to conduct this phase of its work within 45% of the space now required, thus making it possible for the department to remain in its present quarters.

The 1961 Legislature appropriated up to $85,000 for the department to purchase the equipment.

Questions, Answers

The scaled graph paper I use occasionally for making patterns can be purchased at most art supply or stationary stores. Ask for graph paper scaled to one inch.

Q. What is the most becoming style for a very short-waisted girl? Would a princess style be better than a blouse and skirt? Thank you.—Mrs. S. M.

A. Absolutely. A skirt and blouse will only emphasize a short-waisted body. A short-waisted girl (and I'm one) should avoid anything that cuts her at the waistline. She should stay away from wide belts, from dresses having skirts and bodices of different colors, and from skirts and blouses. However, she can wear an overblouse with a skirt if the colors blend or match. This will give her a longer-waisted appearance.

Q. I enjoy your column! My family thinks I'm a whiz at sewing, but they don't know I owe much of my proficiency to you. I have a coat of man-made fur. One of the first such coats made. It's warm, light and wears like iron. That's the trouble — I'm sick of it! I want to use it as a lining in a wool sports jacket. Should I make a zip-in lining and can I buy that type of zipper? In cutting the wool fabric, how do I allow for the bulk of the lining? Thank you.—Mrs. L. K.

A.—I hope my hints continue to be helpful. I don't advise a zip-in lining. The zipper would be difficult to apply to that fabric and would be bulky when finished. But, for future reference, you can buy zippers for such purposes. There is no problem involved when cutting the wool if the jacket is a loose fitting style. But I would use a regular lining in the sleeves instead of the fake fur. Also, if the lining pattern calls for a pleat in the back, as so many do, I would leave it out.

Q. Not long ago you did a cute apron with tassels as trim. I can make the rest of the item fine, but not tassels. Can you show me how?—Mrs. T. P.

A. Take a piece of cardboard as long as you wish the tassel to be. Wind yarn around the cardboard, until you have the desired thickness of the tassel. Tie the yarn strands together at the top end (see illustration). Cut the yarn at the other end. Then, take a piece of thread and wind it around the uncut end several times, to hold the strands together, as shown.

Opening lead — three of spades.

It is a basic principle of play that if you are declarer at a contract the outcome of which is in doubt, you play on the basis that the adverse cards are so divided that you can make the contract. To play otherwise would not make sense.

The same principle applies to a defender. He cannot afford to proceed on the basis that the declarer, whose cards are unseen, has a hand that renders the contract impregnable.

Look at this deal where East effectively applied the principle. South was in three notrump and West led a spade which East won with the king. The question was what East should play next.

He returned the king of hearts, and from then on, South was a dead duck. Declarer took the heart with the ace and led the king of clubs, which West, of course, ducked. Dummy having been rendered useless after these three plays, declarer led a spade which East took with the ace. East returned a heart.

South could now garner only seven tricks and went down two as a result of the excellent defense.

Note what happens if East fails to lead the king of hearts. Suppose he returns a low heart instead. Declarer wins with the queen and forces out the ace of clubs, winding up with ten tricks, since he still has the ace of hearts as an entry to the established clubs.

The spectacular play of the king of hearts has a sound foundation. East reasons that if South has the ace of clubs the contract is unbeatable. He therefore credits West with the ace.

Once this presumption is made it follows that the way to destroy the value of dummy's clubs is to attack the lone entry in dummy. The king of hearts is bound to score a direct hit on dummy's only visible entry. For that reason it is led.

East has no way of knowing whether his plan will succeed, but he knows that unless he attacks boldly, the cause is most certainly lost.

Coffee, Art Greet Newcomers

Officers wives newcomers to the Lincoln Air Force Base were officially welcomed on Wednesday morning at an "international" coffee at which foreign born wives, in costume, assisted the committee in greeting the guests.

The guests not only had a chance to sample coffee varying from Espresso to Irish and German, with a bit of English and Japanese tea, but they also had the opportunity to see an exhibit of paintings done by officers wives or members of their families.

Admiring part of the exhibit are (from the left) Mrs. Bob Beaudro, new president of the Officers Wives Club; Mrs. J. B. Taylor, outgoing president; Mrs. Robert Smith, a native of England; Mrs. George Spotswood, whose former home was Madrid, Spain; and Mrs. Richard Stute, formerly of Munich, Germany.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

EASTMONT

We're well into the new year now, mothers and fathers have recovered from having the youngsters home for Christmas vacation, just in time for another holiday from school. Yes, we hear that the patter of little feet is going to be around the house for a few days now instead of around the school corridors since Lincoln's younger set has a "semester break."

There's no break in Suburbia's social activities, however, for, as usual, this has been a busy, busy week.

Bridge hosts last Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Splichal, and their guests were the three tables of players who compose the neighborhood's couples bridge club.

Guests at the Splichal home were Mr. and Mrs. Don Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Heidtbrink, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Rose, and Mr. and Mrs. Marlo Moore.

Besides bridge, we hear the couples also enjoyed a late pizza supper.

Another party on Friday evening was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whitmer where Mr. and Mrs. Whitmer served as chaperones while their daugher, Jane, entertained 32 teenage friends.

Sharing the hostess role with Jane was Kathy Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hunt.

The young ladies' guests for the evening of dancing, coking, and chatting were eighth grade classmates from Millard Lefler Junior High School.

On Saturday eveing, it was bridge time again as Mr. and Mrs. Everett Peterson played hosts to another monthly couples group.

This time it was bridge and dessert that made a full evening for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ward, and Mr. and Mrs. James Hassler.

One of the neighborhood youngsters has returned to Eastmont this week after several days in Omaha in Children's Memorial Hospital. The young man is Robert Sommer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Sommer, and he has had a recent bout with the measles and pneumonia.

Besides frequent visits by Mr. and Mrs. Sommer, Robert's hospital stay was brightened by his fellow kindergarten students at Eastridge School. To convey their get well wishes to their schoolmate, each of the youngsters made a special little gift for Robert.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Congratulations are in order this week for Fiene Heights resident, Fred T. Witt. Monday evening, Mr. Witt was installed at Patron to Temple Chapter 271 of Eastern Star.

A family celebration on Monday marked Mr. Witt's installation.

PRAIRIE VALLEY

Visitors from Yonkers, New York are in the news from Prairie Valley this week. Though they have never resided in the Capital City, many Lincoln residents will recognize the name of the visitors, Dr. and Mrs. Dunbar W. Smith, who have been frequent visitors to the city.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield W. (Bud) Eden and their daughters, Lou, Lynn, and Lana.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a Commanding Officer on active duty, but please don't mention which branch or where this letter comes from. I just want to say that if you could see some of the letters my husband gets from wives, sweethearts and even mothers asking if a certain boy in his company is living or dead, it would bring tears to your eyes. Why are some boys so thoughtless? Your column reaches more servicemen than any other, Abby, so please print this with your comments.

C.O.'s WIFE

DEAR WIFE: There are thoughtless, lazy, self-centered people everywhere. The boys in the service write to ME and ask if their loved ones at home are dead, dying or have just plain forgotten them. Maybe this will help to perk up mail call. Uncle Sam could use the money.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I thought I'd be the last peson in the world who would ever write a DEAR ABBY letter, but here I am. I am 40 and my husband is 49. We've been married 20 years and have three wonderful children. Suddenly my husband has decided that I am the most beautiful and wonderful woman in the world. He's always been considerate, generous and helpful. But lately I feel like a prisoner. He doesn't let me out of his sight. I went to a shower last Saturday (for ladies only) and he insisted on driving me there (I drive too) and he sat out in front and WAITED for me! He claims I am more attractive today than I was 20 years ago and that every man who sees me falls for me. (This is not true.) What is wrong with him? I can't figure it out.

SMOTHERED

DEAR SMOTHERED: Men go through a period of glandular and chemical changes just as women do, you know. That could be his trouble. He sounds insecure and unsure of himself. Get him to a doctor. Your 49'er is due for a check-up.

Why Grow Old?

Never Forget How To Laugh

Josephine Lowman

Perhaps the severest test of a sense of humor is the ability to laugh at oneself. Those who truly have a sense of the ridiculous and a whimsical outlook discover humor in their own experiences and reactions as well as in those of others.

It seems that some folks laugh less the older they get, while the wit of others seems to sharpen. I suppose the former is due to the fact that there are more responsibilities and worries from middle age on and youthful humor is buried under them. Yet nothing smoothes the hecticness or the discomforts of daily living like a sense of humor.

National Laugh Enterprises was founded in 1945. George Q. Lewis, one of the greats among gagwriters, is its national director. Not long ago the Gagwriters-Comedy Workshop in New York City had a special night for senior citizens 65 and over.

The Gagwriters-Comedy Workshop is the home of the future funnymen of America. Its most recent graduate is Vaughn Meader whose "First Family" record is such a hit. The Senior Citizens night was designed as an exchange between the elder and the younger laughmakers. The consensus of opinion was that laughter has no age limit and that the mind is ever alert to the therapy which laughter offers.

There are many Golden Age Comics in America. Think of Jimmy Durante, Ed Wynn, Bert Wheeler, Sophie Tucker, George Jessel, Groucho Marx, Jack Benny and Harry Hershfield. These are just a few who are still active in the laughmaking profession after more than 50 years or so. George Q. Lewis himself says, "Laughmaking is not confined to the professional comedian. It is an activity that belongs to the audience as well. This is the point that the comedy workshop makes. The audience should participate." In New York City, the Gagwriters-Comedy Workshop holds open house every Tuesday and Thursday from 8 to 10 p.m. George Q. Lewis says, "People do grow older but while they grow older they can keep happy."

I think that all of us could profit by bringing more laughter to our everyday lives. You might even form your own comedy workshop in your home town, or have an evening in your own home when all serious talk would be prohibited. It would be a rare time without any mention of war, politics, religion, taxes or operations!

Q. "I do not understand about exercise. Some say it builds you up and others say that it slims you down."

A. Both views are true in a way. Exercise is a normalizer of the figure. It redistributes weight more attractively. It builds curves when muscles are under developed and works off fatty deposits too. The kind of exercise you take for a figure defect is important.

Powell Compares Cassius To Wife

. . . ALWAYS CHATTERING

Pittsburgh (AP)—While conceding Cassius Marcellus Clay "has great boxing potential," Charley Powell sees characteristics of his wife and an actor in the unbeaten, incessantly chattering young heavyweight.

Powell, a former defensive football end for the San Francisco 49ers, tries in a 10-rounder Thursday night to burst the noisy bubble in which the irrepressible Cassius is floating toward a crack at Sonny Liston's crown.

Clay is a 4-1 favorite to win his 17th consecutive bout and strengthen his image as the best thing that's happened to boxing since gloves.

The Louisville filibuster, just turned 21, arrived in Pittsburgh a week ago and hasn't stopped talking, but that doesn't phase Powell, once ranked the 6th best heavyweight.

"I'm a married man, and I get that all the time, so that doesn't bother me," the San Diego fighter said as he finished preparations for the match.

"It's just like acting," he continued. "An actor becomes famous in a certain type role, and he tends to play this role even when he isn't acting. He (Clay) is becoming to live this."

Actually, the effervescent Clay has appeared in one movie, "Requiem for a Heavyweight," but his speaking role was limited to about 3 words.

Continuing his unbelievably successful practice of predicting in which round the fight will end, boxing's Ogden Nash has given Powell 3 rounds. But Clay's trainer, Angelo Dundee, is not impressed.

"I don't care about him talking 3," Dundee said. "Clay's ready to go 10. This is his toughest fight, his livest opponent. But the better talent Clay fights, the better he is."

CARTER LEADS PIN TOURNAMENT

Donna Zimmerman Paces Kansas City Female Field

. . . ALL-STAR THIRD ROUND COMPLETED

Kansas City (AP)—Don Carter, 4-time champion from St. Louis, surged into the lead in the All-Star Bowling Tournament after the 3rd round of the finals Wednesday night.

The bent-armed magician swept a 4-game series from J. Wilbert Sims of Chicago, outscoring his opponent 963 to 811.

Carter, who was in 4th place after the second round, moved to the top with a Petersen point total of 63-38, reflecting his record of 9 won and 3 lost and his total pinfall of 2,738.

Powell Falls

John Powell of Toledo, the leader for the first two rounds, tumbled to 12th place after he lost 4 straight games to Ed Lubanski of Detroit in the 3rd round.

Defending champion Dick Weber of St. Louis remained in 5th place although he lost two and tied one game in a 3rd round duel with his teammate, Tom Hennessey.

Donna Zimmerman of Akron, Ohio, widened her lead in the women's division when she won two straight games from Sadie Dixon of Philadelphia in the 3rd round. Miss Zimmerman's 31-07 point total put her just 31 pins ahead of undefeated Joan Holm of Chicago.

Better Pinfall

Although Miss Zimmerman has lost one game, she has a better pinfall than Miss Holm.

Defending champion Shirley Garms of Chicago was mired in 15th place for the second straight round. She split her 3rd round match with Marie Stivers of Kansas City.

Marion Ladewig, 7-time champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., moved up to 4th place after shooting a 448 series to win two games from Bobbie Shaler of Chicago.

Under the Petersen point system a bowler receives one point for every game won and one for every 50 pins knocked down.

Shaffer Bopped By Sauldsberry In Maple Melee

Chicago (AP)—The Syracuse-Chicago National Basketball Association game was interrupted for 5-minutes Wednesday night when a fight broke out on the court.

It began when Walt Bellamy, star of the Zephyrs, and Syracuse's Lee Shaffer started elbowing at the free throw circle. Shaffer pushed Bellamy. Chicago's Woody Sauldsberry started after Shaffer.

Sauldsberry knocked Shaffer down with a right to the face. Referee Joe Gushie stepped in to restore order. Sauldsberry was ejected from the game. After Shaffer's head cleared, he resumed playing.

Bennet, Hickman Advance

By GENE FERGUSON
Star Sports Writer

Hickman upset top-seeded Panama, 46-42, and Firth downed Bennet, 51-31, Wednesday night to advance to the finals of the Lancaster County basketball tournament at Nebraska Wesleyan's Ira J. Taylor Gymnasium.

Panama's cold shooting and Hickman's strong rebounding enabled the Bulldogs to jump to an early 16-2 lead and command 21-8 at the first quarter mark.

Panama played a full court press in the 2nd period, which Hickman was unable to penetrate, and the Panthers pulled to within 7, 27-20, at half.

In the 3rd period, Panama outscored Hickman 16-13 and trailed by 4 going into the final stanza. A quick bucket by the Panthers pulled them to within two, but Hickman pulled away in the closing minutes to seal the victory.

Firth raced to an early 16-3 lead and then coasted to a 51-31 victory over Bennet in the other game of the evening.

Cold shooting from the floor and inaccuracy at the free throw line hindered Bennet throughout the game.

Hickman's Jerry Schmutte was top scorer of the evening as he tallied 17 points.

Hickman downed Panama 9-11, 3-4, 10-5, and Malcolm defeated Bennet 8-6, 1-15, 8-6, to move into the volleyball finals.

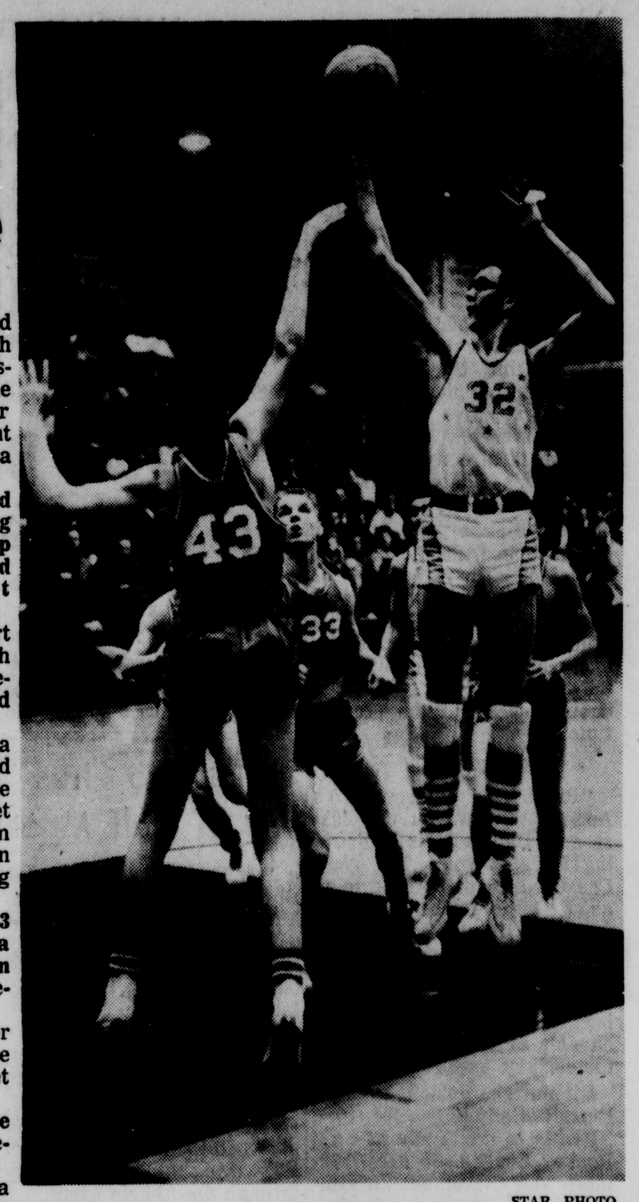

All tourney finals will be played Thursday. Panama and Bennet tangle in the basketball consolation game at 6:30 and Hickman meets Firth for the championship at 9:00. Hickman and Bennet play at 5:45 for 3rd in the volleyball consolation and Panama takes on Malcolm in the finals at 8:00.

U.S. Team Injured In Meet Trials

Igls, Austria (AP)—The United States No. 2 sled was knocked out of competition Wednesday when Joe McKillip and Paul King were injured in qualifying trials for the world two-man bobsled championships opening Saturday.

McKillip, 38, of Saranac Lake, N.Y., the driver, suffered concussion and a possible broken collarbone in the second serious crash on the icy Olympic course in two days, King, 28, the brakeman from Massena, N.Y., strained his right shoulder muscles and suffered minor facial lacerations and bruises when their sled slammed into the wall and somersaulted. King was released from the nearby Innsbruck University Hospital, but will be unable to compete.

Twenty-one teams from 11 countries qualified in the runs, originally scheduled for Thursday but advanced one day to preserve the course.

Franz and Heini Isser of the Austrian No. 2 team turned in the fastest trial, capturing the lead from Britain and Italy on the 1500-meter chute. After trailing in 3rd place during the first run, timed in 1 minute, 10:41 seconds, the Austrian pair zoomed to the finish in 1:09.40 the second time down.

Dr. Hans Ahrerm, deputy chief surgeon at the hospital, said McKillip probably broke a collarbone.

SCARLET SALUTE:

Daryl Petsch Outstanding Prize From Nebr.-Kan. 'Border War'

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Writer

In the continuing border war between Nebraska and Kansas over athletic talent, each state has managed to coax some of the other's better prep athletes to stray from the home land.

One of Nebraska's top victories in the bidding for talent came when Daryl Petsch decided to cast his basketball lot with the Cornhuskers.

Petsch has been called "the best high school basketball player in Kansas during his senior year" by Ralph Miller, cage coach at Wichita of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Recruiting Scramble

When the Marysville, Kan., native graduated from the prep ranks, Miller joined the recruiting scramble along with such schools as Kansas, Kansas State and Nebraska.

"We wanted him at Wichita and we were prepared to make an all-out effort to get him," Miller relates. "But when I discovered that he wanted to major in architecture, that put us out of the race."

Wichita does not have an architectural course of study, but they are now considering adding it to the curriculum.

Petsch says Nebraska's architectural school was one of the main reasons for his choosing the Huskers.

Visited Campus

"I visited the Nebraska campus and talked with some of the professors in architecture and decided to come here," he explains.

The 6-5 junior cager says he has no regrets about coming to NU despite the losing seasons — something to which he was not accustomed.

"It makes it a little tougher to go out each night when you are losing," he explains. "But I feel we can beat any team in the Big 8 anytime we play them."

But he quickly adds, "Of course we all have to be playing to the best of our abilities in order to do it."

Petsch, who is currently leading the Huskers with a 14-point per game average is noted for his soft shots from long distances.

This soft touch has found the range 77 times in 175 attempts for a percentage of .440.

Credits Prep Coach

Petsch credits his high school coach, Jim Stotts, with helping him develop the shot. "He used to work with me about 30 minutes every night on it," he relates.

The Husker architecture student also feels his high school coach was responsible for making college ball easier for him.

Petsch was 6-3½ in high school and most prep cagers this size spend their high school careers playing under the bucket, but not Petsch.

"I played forward at Marysville although our center was only 6-1 and after I finished high school the coach told me he had played me outside because it would help me in college ball," the Husker says.

Biggest Weakness

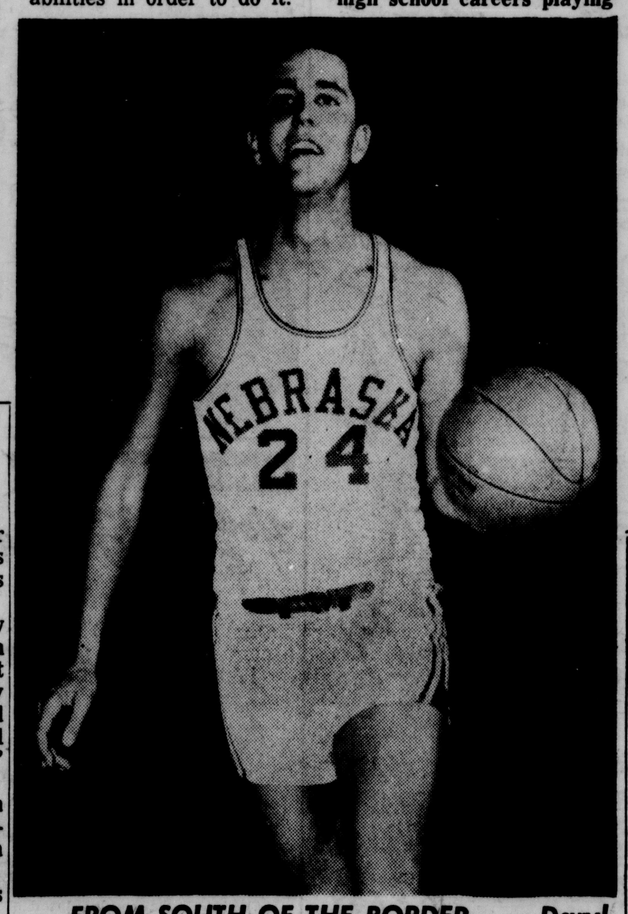

Petsch feels his biggest weakness is his ball handling and his driving, but despite an admitted weakness, the Husker cager handles the ball considerably for coach Jerry Bush's squad.

He teams in the backcourt with either Earl Wright or Larry Bornschlegl in bringing the ball upcourt. "I would rather play forward," says Petsch, "but since we have Ivan (Grupe) and Charlie (Jones) there I am satisfied at guard."

His biggest thrill came last season when he cast a long shot with 3 seconds remaining in the overtime period to give the Huskers a victory over Oklahoma at Norman.

The struggle for prep athletes between Kansas and Nebraska will remain as intense as ever as long as high-scale recruiting stays in college sports.

And while Kansas can boast of victories over the Huskers such as Gale Sayers and Bob Boozer, the Huskers can point to athletes like Noel Martin and Daryl Petsch.

FROM SOUTH OF THE BORDER . . . Daryl Petsch.

'Husker Week' Gets Underway

First report of Cornhusker Appreciation Week activities is in and the debut was termed "a real success."

That's how Broken Bow chairman Paul Brown summed up the celebration at the Broken Bow Country Club. "The fans had a good time and we hope this will become an annual affair," Brown said.

A dozen other Appreciation Week celebrations are scheduled this week and several in the following week.

Lincoln's celebration is scheduled Friday night starting at 5:30 p.m. at the East Hills Country club.

Rockets Go To South Thursday

Northeast's basketball team tackles its only Omaha foe Thursday night at 8 p.m.

The Rockets, 2-5 for the year, will play Omaha South at Norris Junior High School. 2267 South 46th in Omaha.

NAIA Refutes Federation Control

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Al Duer, executive director of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics NAIA, Wednesday said that contrary to wire service reports the U.S. Track and Field Federation was not awarded control of "all college athletes."

Following Gen. Douglas MacArthur's arbitration of the Federation-AAU fight last week, it was reported that the truce gave the Federation control over college athletes and post-graduates still in college, while the AAU would continue to have jurisdiction over non-students.

"This definitely was not part of the agreement," Duer told The Star by phone from his Kansas City office. "I know this was reported, but it is not true and our position remains the same."

The NAIA did not join in the Federation program, spearheaded by the NCAA, and chose to side with the AAU in the battle over the administration of amateur athletics.

"Still Unsure"

"Actually, we haven't all the facts on the agreement yet — and even those who attended the meeting are still unsure about all the details," Duer said. "So it's too early to predict exactly what our course will be. But we definitely are investigating the situation."

Duer said the MacArthur agreement "did, in a way, allow recognition of all college athletics as separate from all amateur athletics.

"But we are in the same position. We are not members of the Federation and we are not under control of the Federation."

Correct View

Thus, while wire services stated the Federation would henceforth be in command of college athletics, the correct interpretation of the agreement would seem to be:

The Federation is in control of all college athletes competing for organizations which are members of the Federation — not all college athletes, period.

While the NAIA is not a member of the Federation, Duer did not discount the possibility that the small college group might reconsider its earlier action and seek admittance in view of the recent settlement.

"Might Be Interested"

"It's entirely possible that we might be interested in joining the Federation," Duer said. "In fact, we considered the possibility of joining the Federation before but we were never given equitable recognition.

"Of course, we want to cooperate with educational institutions, but we must have some assurance of equitable treatment and fair representation as an organization. In other words, the NAIA does not want to be dominated by the NCAA."

It's no secret in the athletic world that the NAIA has been at odds with the NCAA for some time. The NAIA originally was formed by smaller colleges which felt they were not getting adequate representation in the big-college dominated NCAA.

Sore Spot

Biggest sore spot between the two groups was rubbed when the NCAA started a small college division basketball tournament in competition with the NAIA.

Nebraska Wesleyan currently is on NAIA probation because it elected to compete in the NCAA small college tournament — the Plainsmen belong to both groups — rather than the NAIA festival.

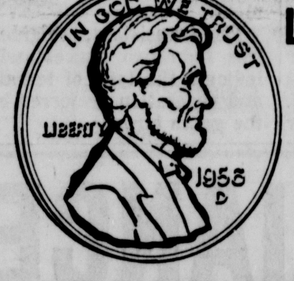

"We're in the process of getting all the facts and then we'll be able to better decide our position in regard to the Federation," Duer said.

Since the Nebraska Federation will hold a state indoor track meet on March 23 at the University of Nebraska, the question arose as to the eligibility of athletes whose schools are not Federation members (like Kearney State Teachers College and Omaha U., for example.)

"In my opinion, athletes from non-Federation schools definitely will be eligible for the Nebraska Federation meet," Duer said. "Since it would be a dual-sanction meet, NAIA athletes would be sanctioned by the AAU and would not require Federation sanction. Again, the agreement between the Federation and the AAU does not give automatic control over all college athletes to the Federation."

Toronto Prexy Downgrades West Coast Hockey Towns

. . . NATIONAL TV CONTRACT NEEDED

By Associated Press

New York (AP) — Stafford Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, fingered Pittsburgh as the No. 1 city in the event of National Hockey League expansion which he claims is "as near as a national television contract in the United States."

"Everybody talks about Los Angeles and San Francisco when it comes to expansion, but they're last in line in my opinion," said the young executive in a telephone interview Wednesday. Smythe is also a member of the NHL's Board of Governors, the circuit's policy-making group.

"Baltimore, St. Louis and Cleveland also rate ahead of the West Coast cities," Smythe continued. "The Minneapolis-St. Paul area is another good one although they don't have a large enough arena at the present time.

'Big Thing'

"Pittsburgh outdrew Los Angeles by two to one last season. Baltimore is outdrawing LA this year. The West Coast teams make a big thing about large attendance figures, but I've never seen any money figures published. I think they're a long ways off from going big league. I've been on the West Coast and haven't been impressed with the hockey operations there.

Pittsburgh, owned by the Detroit Red Wings of the NHL, is in the American Hockey League. So are Baltimore and Cleveland. St. Louis recently received a hockey franchise when the Syracuse team in the Eastern Professional League was moved there. Minneapolis and St. Paul are in the amateur International League.

The Pittsburgh arena has a seating capacity of 10,760; Baltimore 11,260; Cleveland 10,000 and St. Louis around 14,000. The Los Angeles Blades can seat about 14,000 for its Western League games.

Detroit Smallest

Detroit has the smallest seating capacity of the 6 NHL arenas—12,500.

"I have talked to television executives of all the major networks in the United States," Smythe revealed. "They are reluctant to go for a contract until the league is more widespread. They insist that sponsors feel that Los Angeles is the No. 2 market, next to New York.

"The TV money is a necessity. Our present clubs would suffer at the gate when it played one of the new teams which is bound to be weak for a couple of years at least. We need the TV money to make up for the loss in gate receipts.

"I believe that expansion could come in two stages, first by taking in teams from Pittsburgh, Baltimore, St. Louis and maybe Cleveland, and later by adding Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"But," said Smythe candidly. "I don't know whether we have to get a television contract in order to expand or to go ahead with expansion and then try to line up the television contract."

Western Brass Miffed By League Criticisms

Los Angeles (AP) — "Irresponsible" was the reply by the Western Hockey League president Wednesday to criticism aimed at Los Angeles and San Francisco as possible National Hockey League cities.

Al Leader, president of the WHL, was replying to comments made from New York by Stafford Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs and a member of the board of governors of the NHL.

"Stafford Smythe made one short trip to the West Coast and I don't believe he is qualified to comment on the operations in our league," Leader said. "As far as I am concerned, that was a very irresponsible quotation."

The Canadian sportsman had said he was not impressed with operations in the West and felt that several Eastern cities merited major league consideration ahead of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"As far as we know, this gentleman has never seen our operation," said General Manager Jack Geyer of the Los Angeles Blades.

"If he ever visited the Sports Arena since the Blades were organized, he didn't make his presence known to us."

Local Pro Fires 68 In Golf Meet

Port St. Lucie, Fla. (AP)—Joe Brown, a husky West Des Moines, Iowa, pro, birdied 4 of his last 5 holes Wednesday for a 7 under part first round lead in the $5,000 PGA Quarter Century Club Golf Tournament.

Brown shot a 32 on the back 9 of the 6,547-yard par 72 "Saints" course at Port St. Lucie Country Club. That and his 33 on the front 9 gave him a two-stroke lead midway through the 36-hole event.

Deadlocked at 68, 4 more pros were pushing toward the $500 winner's purse. They included Bud Williamson of Lincoln, Neb., Duke Gibson of Kansas City, George Schneiter of Billings, Mont., and Tom Mahan Sr., of Beverly, Mass.

Sharp-Tails Shadowed

Helena, Mont. (AP)—Sharp-tailed grouse will be fitted with miniature radio transmitters so they can be tracked by the Montana Fish and Game Department.

The transistors, weighing less than two ounces, will indicate the type of terrain and vegetation preferred by the game birds.

Stillwater, Okla. (AP)—Sophomore Larry Hawk scored a series high of 32 points here Wednesday night and led Oklahoma State to an 81-62 Big 8 Conference basketball victory over the Oklahoma Sooners.

Hawk's total, which came on 15 field goals and two free throws, eclipsed the mark of 30 points for an Oklahoma State-Oklahoma game set by Bob Kurland in 1946.

Oklahoma State, in rolling to its 3rd conference victory without a loss, scored the first basket and was never headed.

The Cowboys led 37-27 at halftime and the Sooners never got closer than 8 points in the second half.

Pacts Expected To Be Signed Soon For Championship Fight

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Promoters and advisors have agreed on all points and formal contracts are expected to be signed later this week for the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship fight here April 4, it was reported Wednesday.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor who has been demanding the $207,000 withheld from Liston's purse after the first fight in Chicago last September, said the matter had been resolved.

Nilon asked $85,000 cash in hand and the remainder in escrow before signing contracts for the April 4 re-match.

Training Site

"We have agreed on all points," Nilon said. "I will select a training site before Sonny comes down to go into training, next month."

He said contracts are being prepared by Garland (Bill) Cherry, Liston's attorney, and will be ready for presentation to the Miami Beach Boxing Commission by the end of this week.

"Everything has been reduced to the drawing up of contracts and their submission to the boxing commission for approval," said Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports, Inc., which will promote the fight.

Bolan said the contracts will be drawn to include a 15-point list of proposals the boxing commission laid down Monday night.

"There are no more minor details to be worked out," Bolan added.

Liston is training at a gym in Chicago and Patterson is at Highland Mills, N.Y.

Patterson chose Miami Beach for the fight and Julius November, his attorney, said the former champion was expected to arrive here 4 or 5 weeks before the April date.

Sputtering Littler To Defend Crown

. . . IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco (AP) — Gene (The Machine) Littler opens defense of his title in the $50,000 San Francisco International Golf Open Thursday hoping the putting cog is well oiled again.

The machine sputtered the past two tournaments as Littler failed to shoot low enough to qualify for the final rounds at San Diego and in the Bing Crosby event.

He 3-putted 7 greens in the first round of the Crosby in carding an 11-over-par 83.

After playing his practice round over the Harding Park Municipal Course, scene of the San Francisco event, the former U.S. Open champion commented, "I'm putting better now."

He'll have to, in facing a field of 149 pros including such big names as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Bill Casper, who already have posted 1963 victories.

Palmer won the $9,000 first prize at Los Angeles, missed the San Diego Open and then was disqualified at the Crosby when he broke a rule. That infraction also broke Palmer's consecutive in-the-money string at 47 tournaments.

Player, the South African who won here in 1961, tops the 1963 money list with $9,440 after winning at San Diego and winding up in a 5-way tie for second at the Crosby.

Casper captured the Crosby by one stroke with a 285 for 72 holes and has collected $8,308 already this month.

San Francisco fans closely watch hometown product Bob Rosburg, now playing out of Portland, Ore., who is 4th on the money list with $4,570 and has played the Harding Park course since he was in knee britches.

John Brodie, the San Francisco 49ers quarterback who played with Rosburg in the pro-amateur at the Crosby, said he hasn't seen the veteran play better golf. Rosburg also was in the fivesome at 286 Sunday.

Big Mike Souchak, who posted the best practice round with a 6-under-par 65, said the 6,722-yard course was playing faster than usual, due mainly to the lack of rain.

"The course is in as good shape as you can expect for one that is played so frequently," Souchak commented.

Nearly 150,000 golfers play over Harding Park annually but the greens have been closed, with temporaries in use, the past 3 weeks to get set for the Open.

George Knudson, the Canadian who surprised by finishing in second place last year, two strokes off Littler's 274, found rugged going Wednesday as he soared to an 81 in the pro-amateur competition.

Player wasn't able to get in a warmup round as other commitments kept him from arriving earlier.

Links Mat Head Hopes For Change

Are farm boys stouter than their side-walk reared counterparts?

It seemed that way—for a while at least—to Lincoln High wrestling coach Melvin Simpson, a first-year man in the Lincoln school system.

He came here last fall from Oberlin, Kan., where most of his grapplers were accustomed to the rigors of farm work.

His record was outstanding at Oberlin, winning two state titles in 6 years with a small school in a one-class state tourney.

After a few months of wrestling observance, plus some competition, Simpson isn't now sure the lack of farm work for Lincoln wrestlers is the cause for not being state title contenders.

"I thought so at first," he admits. "Now I believe it is probably a matter of the prestige of the sport."

"At Oberlin, little kids in the grades wanted to be high school wrestlers.

"I think the sport has been more or less a fill-in here between other sports (football and track, for instance).

"This is something I want to change right away."

He must be getting the point across since the LHS team recently bumped off city favorite Northeast in a dual match.

Deputy Sheriffs Discuss 75% Salary Problem

By GERRY WRIGHT
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County deputy sheriffs generally agreed Wednesday that the deputy salary based on 75% of the county official's salary is not a workable figure for all deputies in Lancaster County.

In a meeting with County Commissioners, who took the matter under advisement, the deputy sheriffs said they felt they had been "discriminated against" under the law.

The 1961 law set deputies' salaries at 75% of the salary of elected officials, but commissioners, in adopting the 1963 county budget, did not include funds for increases for the sheriff's deputies, though Sheriff Merle Karnopp was given a raise.

Support Asked

Deputy Del Ziemann explained the sheriffs would like the commissioner's support in opposing LB38 which in before the Legislature to repeal the 1961 law, until such a time that "we can obtain amendments or new legislation to make it workable governing deputies' salaries on a percentage basis."

The deputies pointed out that they did not feel that the county board was "purposely unfair" with their department because Sheriff Karnopp, assuming the law probably would be repealed, did not request increases based on 75% of his $9,200 salary effective Jan. 3, 1963.

Deputy William Jones said that he did not feel that the $6,900 annual salary, based on 75% of Karnopp's salary, is "outrageous" when compared with that of the Lincoln Police Department.

He noted that the police officers get time off for overtime and may hold other jobs, which is not the case with the sheriff's office.

'Less Than Police'

He also pointed out that based on the 40-hour week for police officers beginning March 1 compared with the deputies' 54-hour week. the hourly wage of the deputies would be $2.66 compared with $2.67 for police officers.

Other deputies expressed the view that the 75% is probably an unworkable figure since all deputies would receive that amount regardless of experience or quality of work.

Deputy Harlan Kendle told the board that the deputies would like to have something more equitable worked out so deputies would be paid according to ability and capability.

The delegation said supporting a legislative bill — for which there isn't time to prepare this session — to set a minimum wage based on a percentage of the county official's salary "will be a great step forward."

Karnopp said he was not and never had been in favor of the 75% law, but would like to wait until after the hearing on LB38 slated next week and then meet with the board to set up some policy.

He said that in his opinion if his department could not get along with the county board, they certainly would get nowhere with the Legislature, and "we've never had any trouble with the county board."

Board members indicated that the $6,900 figure is "too high" but felt some plan might be worked out whereby a minimum and maximum salary would be set to give Karnopp leeway to base salary on experience and ability and at the same time keep salaries in line with the cost of living.

MOHAMMED ALI

Pakistan Minister Dies, Staunch Anti-Communist

Dacca, Pakistan (AP) —Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali, a staunch anti-communist and a good friend of the United States, died unexpectedly Wednesday.

The 53-year-old statesman had been working hard and had ignored his doctor's orders to take a complete rest. He arrived here Tuesday from Karachi and had arranged a meeting with visiting Premier Rachid Karame of Lebanon for Friday.

Cause of death was not announced immediately.

Ali's death came with Pakistan at an important crossroad in the cold war struggle between the Chinese Communists and Western powers in Asia.

On Hot Seat

American and British military aid to Prime Minister Nehru in India's border war with Red China put Ali on a political hot seat and strained his long pro-Western attitude.

The foreign minister raised his voice with other Pakistanis in protesting the aid in fear India would use the arms against Pakistan in the dispute over Kashmir. But Ali said he "spoke in anguish, not anger."

As prime minister between 1953 and 1955, Ali led Pakistan into the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact, renamed the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) after Iraq withdrew from the alliance set up by the West to contain communism in the East.

Many Friends

The convivial Pakistani diplomat had many friends in the United States where he served two tours as ambassador to Washington during the 1950s and as leader of his country's delegation to the United Nations.

He once silenced parliamentary critics of U.S. policy by reminding them of the "dark days of '53 and '54 when famine stalked East Pakistan and India threatened Pakistan's security."

Solons To See Third Power System Plan

A third plan for reorganization of Nebraska's public power districts will be laid before the Legislature for consideration.

A bill to separate the Nebraska Public Power System will be introduced as an "alternative" to the 5-district area concept, according to Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte.

Both measures have the support of Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District, Craft said. The two agencies are NPPS co-partners.

Be Introduced

The other reorganization proposal — merging all generation and transmission agencies in the eastern two-thirds of the state, excluding the Omaha Public Power District — will be introduced by Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City.

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington and Craft will sponsor the 5-area plan. No introducer has yet been determined for the NPPS separation bill.

The merger proposal is a recommendation of the Legislative Council's public power study committee. It is supported by Consumers Public Power District and rural power districts.

Meanwhile, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff Wednesday tossed in a bill which would eliminate the present requirement for a vote of the people before a city may acquire an electric distribution system within its confines.

When CPPD's indebtedness on its urban distribution systems is wiped out, cities may now acquire the system for a dollar if voters approve. The decision for most cities served by Consumers, including Lincoln, would be made in 1972

Carpenter's measure, LB410, is expected to stir the power waters even more. Under its application, Lincoln could acquire CPPD's city distribution system merely by action of the City Council.

Other bills are already in to authorize taxation of power districts and to create a regulatory state power review board.

3-Car Accident At Fifth St. & Oak Hospitalizes Lady

A 3-car accident at 5th and Oak late Wednesday afternoon sent a 29-year-old Lincoln woman to St. Elizabeth Hospital with back pains and lacerations.

Voncille S. O'Donnell of 4626 Gladstone, was listed in good condition after the car she was driving collided with another, which in turn collided with a third.

Safety Patrol officers identified the drivers of the other vehicles as John Blewitt, 32, of 3115 No. 46th, and James A. Mitchell, 21, of 2936 No. 27th. Neither Blewitt nor Mitchell were hospitalized.

LB416 Would Require Vote On Tax Increases

The Legislature's newest member proposed Wednesday that if and when the state goes into the sales or income tax business, no increase in tax rates could be made without a vote of the people.

Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus, who reached the Unicameral by appointment to fill a vacancy, advanced the plan.

Specifically, his LB416 would submit to voters next year a constitutional amendment providing that when the broadened tax base devices are adopted, the Legislature would initially set the tax rate but any subsequent increases would need to be put to a vote of the public.

The bill was one of more than two dozen dumped into the legislative machine on the current session's 17th lawmaking day.

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln introduced his promised bill changing Nebraska's primary election date from May to September and providing that delegates to national party conventions be selected at state party conventions rather than at the primary election.

Under Stromer's LB432, the primary would be held on the second Tuesday in September beginning in 1964.

The delegate state conventions would be held not later than June 1 on presidential election years to pick delegates to the national party conventions.

Stromer said the present system of selecting delegates is nothing more than a popularity contest.

"Nebraska does everything in her power to weaken the responsibility of her two political parties," Stromer said. He suggested both parties would be strengthened if delegates to their national convention were chosen at state party conventions.

Other Bills

Also received Wednesday were bills:

Permitting the use of safflower oil rather than milk fat in ice cream (LB413); Fleming, McGinley).

Changing the name of the University of Nebraska's "College of Agriculture" to "College of Agriculture and Home Economics." (LB421; Warner, R. Rasmussen, Orme).

Authorizing the trial use of voting machines in Douglas and Lancaster counties (LB424; Moulton, Klaver).

Requiring a hearing before a pupil may be expelled from school and limiting the expulsion period to the remaining portion of the semester. (LB425; R. Rasmussen, Warner).

Changing the designation of deaf persons to "acoustically handicapped." (LB426; R. Rasmussen, McGinley).

Bill To Alter Shares Of State Fund

A bill revising shares of the state building fund levy was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday by Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala.

The measur, LB439, would more than treble the Department of Institution's share of the 1.1 mill levy. This would be done at the expense of the University of Nebraska, the state teachers colleges and some other state agencies which share in the fund.

McGinley previously said his intention in introducing the bill was to have a study made of the construction needs of the various state agencies which finance their capital improvements from the building levy. He said the budget committee could look into the needs of these agencies in the course of considering his measure.

LB439 would increase the institutions share of the levy from 11% to 36%.

Agencies which would see their slice reduced are the University of Nebraska, from 31% to 21.5%; state normal colleges, from 21 to 17.5%; State Board of Education, from 3 to 2.5%, and the Capitol Building Commission, from 6 to 4.5%.

Agency Ties To Be Topic Of Study

A committee of the family and children's section of the Lincoln Community Council will be formed to study the lack of interagency referrals and communications.

Florence Brugger, section chairman, announced at a meeting that the step was being taken at the request of the executive committee of the Community Council.

The section meeting also heard from Warden Maurice Sigler a case study of a man sentenced to the Penitentiary, outlining how his imprisonment affected the community because of the special problems caused for the family.

Mice Cause Fire

Tynemouth, England (UPI) A fire department spokesman said a fire which damaged a house here was caused when 5 pet mice turned over an oil lamp placed near their cage for warmth. Firemen rescued the pet cats.

Machinists Reject Boeing Co. Contract Offer In Mass Vote

Seattle (AP)—Machinists' union members at Boeing Co. plants and missile sites tthroughout the country voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to reject the company's latest contract offer.

A decision on whether to strike the big aerospace firm was to be announced Thursday.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Kennedy appointed a 3-man board of inquiry in a move to prevent a work stoppage.

Large Margin

The vote by members of the Aero Mechanics Union, an affiliate of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, was 16,964 to reject the contract and 3,590 to accept.

The company issued a statement after the vote count in which it offered to continue negotiations in good faith.

Lowell P. Mickelwait, vice president of industrial and public relations at Boeing, noting that only union members were permitted to vote, said:

"No other result could be expected from a mass meeting of this nature at which union leaders, in defense of their position, strongly urged rejection of the company offer."

Union Statement

Referring to the findings of a special presidential panel which investigated the dispute, the union issued a statement saying:

"The panel made definite recommendations that, if followed, would avoid a costly strike. We believe all of our requests are just and entirely within reason.

"We believe the company should feel a deep sense of responsibility and settle this dispute by the simple process of granting the contract requests the employes are asking."

Crowded

Nearly 15,000 union members crowded into the sunlit high school memorial stadium here to vote. The Seattle vote was 11,973 to reject and 3,013 to accept.

The union did not release the breakdown at Boeing facilities in Kansas, Florida, California, Utah and other scattered space and missile sites.

The key issue has been the union shop, which the presidential panel said, after lengthy meetings with both sides, that it would order if it had binding power of arbitration.

LANCASTER COUNTY HORSES TO GET BOTFLY TREATMENT

Sunday has been designated as an "SOS" Day for some 300 horse owners in the Lincoln area, according to the Extension Service and 4-H Horse Club leaders.

The 4-H horse clubs of Lancaster County are planning a botfly control program with Sunday set as a community-wide treatment day for horses, mules and donkeys by Lincoln veterinarians, 4-H Horse Club leaders say.

Extension workers point out that horses are host to a number of internal parasites which are detrimental to the animal's health.

Control of the bot is possible when approached on a cooperative basis with a community-wide treatment considered capable of providing a high degree of control, according to extension leaders.

The adult fly looks somewhat like a bumble bee and the flies will lay up to 500 eggs on a horse with the larvae stage considered the most harmful, spokesmen say.

The control project was begun as a Junior Leader 4-H project started by Jan Conrad, a member of the Lincoln Manana Vaqueros Horse Club. Four 4-H clubs have joined in contacting horse owners for the Sunday program, according to Mrs. Ed Weaver, Jr., assistant leader, Manana Vaqueros 4-H Horse Club.

Broadcasters Head Raps FCC Hearings

A former Florida governor, LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, criticized the methods and motives of the Federal Communications Commission in its upcoming hearings into programming at Omaha's 3 television stations.

Collins, speaking before the Nebraska Association of Broadcasters, said the government is "poaching on lands properly devoted to free enterprise, hoping to flush some unknown bird it can shoot down, but feeling that whether it finds any bird or not, it can reap public favor just by openly hunting for one."

Collins labeled the hearings as evidence of "irresponsible" and "meddling" government, and added: "We in broadcasting demand that the FCC cease its efforts to govern by harassment—by needling, by nibbling—directed indiscriminately against all broadcasters."

State broadcasters joined Collins in blasting the hearings to start Monday, issuing a statement that: "This only too obvious grandstand action of the FCC is a fundamental and violent invasion of the rights and integrity of broadcasting."

Collins addressed the dinner meeting of the state broadcasters' 2-day convention, which was attended by over 90 delegates.

At the broadcasters' banquet, an Omaha civic organization, Ak-Sar-Ben, presented plaques and $100 cash prizes to two radio stations for activities and projects benefiting their home communities. The money is for use on community projects or charity.

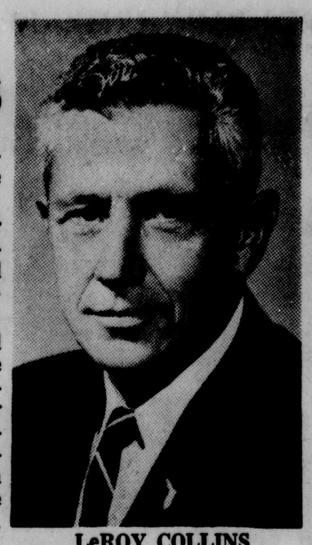

Station KVHS, Valentine, was honored for promoting tourist attractions in its area and KOIL, Omaha, was singled out for its promotion of the Boys Club of Omaha.

Clarles W. O'Rouke, president of the Ak-Sar-Ben council, also presented citations to WJAG, Norfolk; KSTF-TV, Scottsbluff; KFOR, Lincoln, and KMEO, Omaha.

The group adopted a proposal for "reciprocal tourist promotion" among the state's radio broadcasters, which would provide spot announcements on all stations boosting tourist attractions throughout the state and aimed at tourists traveling through the state.

Mention of events in other areas of the state would allow tourists to plan ahead for stopovers to visit the various attractions.

The broadcasters also heard a review of prospects in the educational television program by KUON-TV manager Jack McBride and M. Scheffel Pierce, assistant professor of radio and TV, and a presentation on Radio Free Europe by James Paxton, state director.

LeROY COLLINS

Burton Raps Collins' Views

Herbert Burton, general manager of KFMQ, Lincoln's FM radio station, took strong issue with LeRoy Collins's remarks to the Nebraska Association of Broadcasters Wednesday.

"Governor Collins would have us believe that the downfall of civilization is at stake if the FCC continues to spot check in the area of broadcasting," Burton told The Star.

"There is no investigation in Omaha," Burton said. "It is merely spot checking. After all, when the broadcaster applies for his license, he has by virtue of his application assumed an obligation to the Communications Commission."

Burton said, "There is no 'harassment' except that the NAB is interjecting into a perfectly legitimate appraisal of broadcasting.

Bill Unfreezing Funds Advanced

A bill releasing a "frozen-fund" of approximately $450,000 to the City of Omaha was advanced to general file by the Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee Wednesday on a 7-to-0 vote.

LB56, introduced by Sens. George Syas and Michael P. Russillo of Omaha, would remove a limitation on the use of gas tax funds which has resulted in a backlog of upwards of $450,000. If passed, an emergency clause would give the City of Omaha immediate access to this fund to finance capitol improvements.

Warren Swigart, member of the Omaha City Council, appeared in favor of the bill, saying that this is "the most important bill out of the 17 that we, the city council, come to you to ask for passage."

Omaha is so close to the mill levy limit, he said, that it must find every other way to repair its streets. Swigart said also that he personally would prefer to see no limitation on the use of the money.

The same point of view was advanced by Russillo.

"Omaha is a home-rule city," he said, "and we now have the Legislature telling us what to do with this money.

"Restrictions are an infringement on the City of Omaha."

The bill, by removing the 30% limitation would enable the city to maintain continuously a fund of $25,000 solely to improve intersections, and would free the $450,000 for city expenditure on capital improvements.

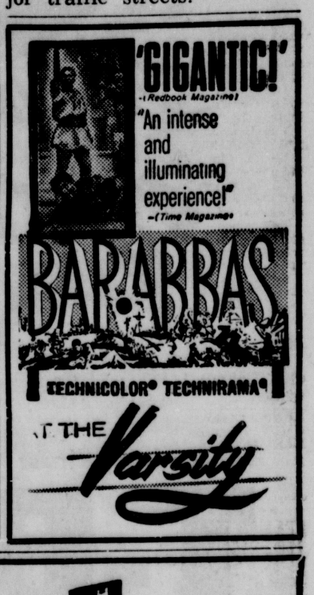

Other bills heard and advanced to general file were LB57, clarifying provisions of the law relating to street improvements in Omaha and LB58, increasing the minimum amount of special assessments from $50 to $100 that may be paid in installments in Omaha.

Heard and held was LB55, permitting improvement, without petition, of major traffic streets.

Market Gets Boost From Steels, Rails

New York (AP)— Steels and rails were in gear Wednesday, pulling the stock market into higher recovery ground despite losses by savings-and-loan holding companies and some aerospace issues.

Volume was a fairly active 4.82 million shares compared with 4.81 million Tuesday.

Hopes of an early settlement of the dock strike, combined with a published report that Atlantic Coast Line's profits were up sharply and its operating revenues at the highest level since 1956, inspired the rails.

The steels were inspired by Youngstown Sheet's profits, which were much higher than estimates.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.05 to 677.58.

The market was higher from the start but there was a liberal minority of losers.

Of 1,311 issues traded, 619 advanced and 428 declined. New highs for 1962-63 totaled 47. There were no new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.3 to 254.7 with industrials up 1.0, rails up 1.5, and utilities up .9.

An estimated $1.6 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the AP average.

Seven of the 15 most active stocks rose, 6 fell, and 2 were unchanged.

Prices moved irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.22 million shares compared with 1.13 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed: Most U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

Grain Market Mostly Higher

Chicago (AP) — Demand was strong Wednesday for wheat, oats and soybean futures and all those commodities finished with substantial gains on the Board of Trade. Corn was slightly higher, rye mostly weak.

The runup in soybeans more than recovered the broad setbacks of the previous session which were the first in 10 days of steadily climbing prices. Gains ran to almost three cents a bushel.

Wheat closed 1⅝-2 cents a bushel higher, March $2.10½; corn ⅛-¼ higher, March $1.15½-⅜; oats ⅛-1½ higher, March 73⅝-¾ cents; rye ⅝ lower to ¼ higher, March $1.39-39¼; soybeans 1⅛-2⅛ higher, March $2.61⅛-62.

Stockholders List Penalties Bill Is Moved

A bill setting penalties for corporations which fail to provide the state tax commissioner with lists of their shareholders won approval of the Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

Sent to the floor on a 7-0 vote was LB16, introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter.

Another Carpenter bill, LB22, was killed at Carpenter's request.

LB22 would have provided that corporations must be qualified to do business in Nebraska under terms of the state's corporation law before they could bid on or enter into contracts to supply labor, services, materials or commodities to the state, counties, cities or any other governmental subdivisions.

About a dozen witnesses were on hand to testify against LB22 at the public hearing but Carpenter cut off their testimony by asking that the bill be killed. He said other statutes cover the ground.

LB16 provides that corporations failing to supply shareholder lists to the state are barred from bringing or maintaining any action in Nebraska courts, or from entering into any contract with the state.

The measure is designed to put more teeth in Nebraska's taxing procedures.

Shareholder lists provide a means of checking whether a stockholder has declared these intangible properties for tax purposes.

Bill Would Extend To Chiropractors And Osteopaths

A bill which would extend medical care for the aged to include osteopaths and chiropractors was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday.

Authored by Sens. Dale Erlewine of Grant and F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus, LB408 provides medical assistance with "the absolute right of freedom of choice in selecting any vendor of medical, surgical and hospital care."

An earlier medical care bill, LB100, does not include as broad a coverage.

Elderly Couple Freezes In Home; Afraid Of Fire

Peoria, Ill. (AP) — An elderly brother and sister, said by the coroner to have been so afraid of fire that they refused to heat their house, were found dead Wednesday, apparently from freezing.

The temperature outside their home in nearby rural Brimfield had dropped to 17 degrees below zero.

Coroner Horace Payton said the bodies of Clifford Hamilton, 84, and his sister, Florence, 67, were found by a niece, Mrs. Irene Miller.

"When I was called in I found the brother lying on an old-fashioned sofa," the coroner said. "He was wearing lot of clothes, sweaters, an overcoat, gloves and a wool cap with the ear flaps pulled down. He had blankets piled around him. The sister was lying on the floor, and she was wearing lots of clothes, too, and lying under a pile of blankets.

"There was a coal stove in the living room but it hadn't been used for some time. There were so many newspapers piled around it you couldn't get to it. The only other thing they had was a hot plate that they cooked on.

"They collected a lot of things and the house was filled with cartons of paper. They were so afraid of fire they refused to heat the house."
